American Troops Regain Ground Lost in German Attack Against Beachhead

YANKS REPAIR BROKEN LINE SOUTH OF ROME

500-Yard Enemy Gain Thrown Back in Day and Night Battle.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Feb. 7—American troops on the Anzio beachhead have repulsed a strong new German attack which broke through the allied perimeter, three miles west of the vital road and rail hub of Cisterna, and have restored their original positions, it was announced today.

Cisterna is astride the Appian Way and an electrified railway 26 miles southeast of Rome, and is at 10 miles east of Carroceto (Map 10a), where previous German counter-blows were blunted.

The Germans began the new assault Saturday evening with infantry, tanks and artillery. Fighting raged through the night and into yesterday, before the Nazis were pushed back to the starting point with losses.

Lose 500 Yards

(A Sunday dispatch from Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent on the beachhead, said the Americans were driven back about 500 yards Saturday night and recovered the ground.)

The Nazis, reinforced along the beachhead perimeter to at least four divisions and an SS brigade by the arrival of the 715th infantry division from southern France, made lesser attacks along the line. Some German elements were spotted forming for another attack against the British north of Carroceto, but the formation was broken up by accurate artillery fire and the British captured 300 of the enemy.

Grim house-to-house fighting continued to Cassino on the main Fifth army front, but the Americans battled up Mt. Cassino just west of the town, already nearly encircled, and reached a point within a few hundred yards of the famous Benedictine monastery at the crest.

Fresh army troops along the Anzio drove into the villages of Cerrato, two and a half miles northwest of Sant' Angelo, Montenerodomo, four miles south of Torricella.

Planes Patrol Beachhead

Fighters maintained patrols over the Anzio beachhead. Bombers struck at railyards and a bridge at Orte, north of Rome, and at Terni, near the capital, and cut communications north and south of Rome. Shipping in the Anzio harbor was hit.

Thirteen allied planes failed to return and 10 Nazi aircraft were destroyed, headquarters disclosed. Lt. Cousins, Flight Officer Marion Rogers of West Union, O., and Sgt. Robert Scott, Columbus, were members of the crew of one of the Mitchells which bombed the road junction at Frascati. They said their bombs plastered the horseshoe bend in the road and there was so much smoke they thought the Germans had put up a smokescreen.

Tuesday's Tin Collection Area

Flattened tin cans will be collected tomorrow in the area from Center avenue to Greenwood south of the railroads

Marion residents are asked to remove labels from the cans, flatten them and place them in a container at the curb.

Mansfield Company To Open Plant Here

Tappan Stove Co. Leases Large Scioto Ordnance Plant Line; To Start Making War Material Next Month.

The Tappan Stove Co. of Mansfield has leased one of the production lines at the Scioto Ordnance Plant from the Corps of Engineers and will start production of war materials there some time next month.

This was disclosed today by Col C. C. Fletcher, real estate officer for the Ohio River division of the Corps of Engineers with headquarters in Columbus, by officials of the Tappan company and by officials of the Marion Chamber of Commerce who have been helping locate war projects to make use of the big Scioto facilities.

The lease was signed late last week, and Tappan officials, headed by W. R. Tappan, son of the president of the company, who will manage the Marion plant, are already on the job planning installation of machinery.

Col. Fletcher said he did not wish to disclose at this time the product to be made at the Marion plant nor the branch of the military service that will use the products.

Although definite employment figures were not available, it was expected the plant will use some 200 workers when it gets into operations, possibly more later. About half are expected to be women workers.

At present, the company is turning out aircraft parts in its Mansfield plant. In peacetime its normal employment was around 900, officials said. The company was founded in 1861. Its president is Paul R. Tappan and W. Hubert Tappen is vice president.

In making today's announcement, Col. Fletcher said the real estate division of the Corps of Engineers is hopeful of having most of the Scioto production lines leased in the next six months unless some of the military branches take over part of the site for their own use. He said he has received many inquiries regarding possible use of Scioto's buildings.

One of Largest Lines

The line leased to the Tappan company is known as F-7, and is located along the Likens road in the southeast corner of the reservation. It is one of the larger of Scioto's nine production lines and will provide some 43,000 square feet of floor space for the company's use. An area of ground space around the line was also covered by the lease.

A. C. Rhoads, secretary and treasurer of the Tappan company, said this morning that conversion of F-7 to the company's use will be a comparatively simple matter. Aside from small work like installing an enlarged doorway, the job will consist principally of installing machinery which the company already has at its Mansfield plant, he said. The buildings are nearly empty at present and installation of machinery should progress rapidly, he said.

Post-War Use Undecided

Company officials said they were unable to comment on the possibility of continued use of the Scioto plant after the war except to say that the company's post-war plans involve some possible expansion and possibly some new lines in addition to the ones manufactured before the war.

The Tappan company will be the second private industrial concern to become a tenant at Scioto, the first being the Permanente Metals Corp., a Henry J. Kaiser subsidiary which is operating an incendiary bomb loading plant at one of the large lines. Scioto also houses the Army Air Forces Specialized Storage Depot that is carrying on a worldwide supply job for one type of war plane motor, and also is headquarters for the Area Engineer of the Corps of Engineers. Also on the grounds yet are Ordnance department officials and a number of officials and employes of the U. S. Rubber Co. who are closing out their operations at the plant.

Col. Fletcher today said he and some other real estate division officers of the Corps of Engineers planned to come to Marion soon to meet with Chamber of Commerce officials and other interested persons in the interest of speeding use of remaining buildings at Scioto for war work.

U. S. EXTENDS ISLAND RAIDS

Other Atolls in Marshalls Group Feel Force of U. S. Air Attack.

By The Associated Press

American control of Kwajalein atoll brought the promise today of intensified efforts to bomb and blockade the Japanese on other bases in the invaded Marshall islands and to extend the Pacific drive to the powerful Caroline group.

Only mopping-up of Japanese stragglers on a few coral cays apparently remained to achieve full conquest of the first pre-war Nipponese territory taken by the allies. Construction crews already were turning Kwajalein into an American sea and air stronghold exactly a week after the initial landings Jan. 31.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced at Pearl Harbor yesterday that occupation of the atoll, with its cluster of 32 principal islets, excellent anchorage and at least two airfields, "is very nearly complete."

Kwajalein island, termed the administrative heart of the Marshalls, fell Friday afternoon, 78 hours after landings by the Seventh army division. The seaplane base of Ebeye to the north was occupied three hours earlier. Capture of Gugegwe, Bigej and Eller

Japs Answer To Atrocities

Tokyo Lays Charge of Brutal Treatment to U. S. and Britain.

By The Associated Press

Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese board of information, sought today to reply to United States and British charges of wholesale atrocities committed by Japan against captive civilians and prisoners of war—by citing what he said was the record of "numerous outrages" against Japanese.

"The Anglo-American campaign to spread hatred against Japan has been motivated by the desire to cover up their own crimes," Iguchi declared in a statement broadcast by the Berlin radio.

He charged that "many of the 2,400 Japanese women who were confined at the Japanese primary school in Davao (in the Philippines) were raped."

He added that "on Jan. 20 (1942) as Japanese forces were about to land at Davao Americans resorted to the most bestial treatment of ten Japanese who were preparing food for their fellow internes. These men were bound with ropes, boiling water was poured upon them, their ears were cut off, their eyes gouged, their noses slashed and their arms and legs amputated — a sadistic torture that defies description. Enemy troops fled as Japanese forces advanced, but before that they left as many as 56 Japanese murdered."

This was a more detailed version of a charge the Japanese

RED TROOPS NEAR INVASION STARTING POINT

Nazis Suffer Some of War's Worst Defeats Along 1,200-Mile Front.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 7—The Russian army is less than 45 miles at some points from the lines where Adolf Hitler launched his invasion of the Soviet Union, and all along the 1,200-mile long eastern front the German army is suffering some of the war's worst defeats, field dispatches said today.

Gaining the upper hand along the lower reaches of the Dnieper river with advances up to 40 miles through a 100-mile-wide gap, Gen. Rodion Y Malinovsky's third Ukrainian army ruthlessly went about the job of destroying five trapped German divisions (normally 75,000 men) in the Nikopol sector. Meanwhile, 150 miles to the north, more Nazi corpses littered the thawing Ukranian earth as the armies of Gens. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S Konev drew ever tighter a ring of death around the remnants of 10 divisions near Cherkasy.

Loss of Nikopol, which reportedly has been furnishing German industries the major amount of manganese used in the reich's production of war equipment probably would be the hardest industrial blow to be suffered by the Germans during the entire Russian offensive.

Place of Trap

A Pravda dispatch said the point where Malinovsky cut off the five enemy divisions was on the Dnieper river near the mouth of the Buzuluk river, which flows into the Dnieper three miles from Nikopol.

The Nazis appeared to have lost Krivoi Rog along with Nikopol.

Hitler placed such value on the two mining cities that, said Pravda, orders were read to every company in each battalion to hold and officers gave oaths to fight to the last.

The Germans' long-held springboard immediately across the Dnieper from Nikopol was an area roughly 25 miles long and 15 miles deep.

Many days of continuous rain have melted the Ukraine's snows, and roads are almost unusable. Every stream, creek and river is in flood, and airfields are soft with clinging mud.

A Pravda report from the encirclement ring in the Cherkasy-Kanev area said the Germans were trying to break out north of the Zvenigorodka area. But the Russian ring is holding "firm, strong and dense."

Red Guerrillas Strike

Guerrillas were reported to have risen within the "death ring," seizing forests and ravines and every night making life hell for the trapped Nazis. Pravda declared the ring "is blockaded from the air now," although some Ger-

HELSINKI FIRES STILL RAGING

200 Buildings Hit and 38 Persons Killed in Red Raid on Finn Capital.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 7—Fires still were burning in Helsinki at noon today from two Russian bombings Sunday which hit 200 buildings and killed 38 persons, the Finnish legation in Stockholm said.

The attacking bombers dropped mine bombs and incendiaries. It was officially announced at the Finnish capital. The announcement listed 232 persons as wounded.

(Advices reaching London said telephone communication between Helsinki and Stockholm had been cut again today, suggesting the possibility of a third raid in what apparently is a concentrated effort to drive Finland out of the war).

Thousands of women, children and elderly persons began to evacuate Helsinki.

Estonian Capital Bombed

A Moscow radio announcement said the Estonian capital of Reval (Tallinn) also had been bombed, adding to the growing uneasiness in Sweden.

This morning Swedish aircraft roared over Stockholm in extensive maneuvers despite poor weather.

Helsinki traffic was reported disrupted as the Russians dropped high explosives and incendiaries starting fires which were difficult to control.

First eye-witness details of the raids which ended a long lull in the war on the Finnish front—came in a dispatch from the Helsinki correspondent of the Stockholm

Paramushiro Last in Long Chain of Jap Home Islands

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Paramushiro, which now has had a taste of bombardment by our warships, is the northernmost of the home islands of Japan.

It is about 730 miles southwest of the American base on Attu island in the Aleutians and is more than 1,400 miles from Dutch Harbor, the Navy's northernmost big Pacific base.

Paramushiro is in an area where fog and North Pacific storms often blanket large areas, facilitating secret approach but at the same time covering the actual targets of an attack.

Despite these weather uncertainties, Japanese installations on Paramushiro have been bombed from the air on a number of occasions since the United States reoccupied the Aleutians and thereby moved their former bases within bomber range of the Kurile island group.

Some of the earlier heaviest raids were made by Army bombers, but recently the Navy has reported its planes making attacks on the islands. While Navy reports described their planes only as "Navy bombers" it was assumed those raids were conducted by land-based aircraft.

In recent months, frequency of the attacks has stepped up, leading to speculation a softening-up operation was in progress.

The chain of the Kurile Islands linking Paramushiro with the home island of Honshu reveals a menace for any landing attempt on Paramushiro. Aircraft cover could be augmented from the multitude of bases spotted down through the island chain and in the mainland. In addition, it is closer to Japan's main naval bases than any other point in the Japanese sphere of conquest so far taken by American forces.

Action at Paramushiro brings the Pacific war close to Russia, a neutral in the Pacific conflict. The island is separated from Russia's Kamchatka peninsula only by a narrow strait.

Soldier Bond Sale Shows On Program at Palace Tonight

Two Capacity Houses Expected for "Air Service Command Varieties" at 6:30 and 9:15.

Tonight's the night when hundreds of Marion county residents will gather at the Palace theater to see an all-soldier cast present an entertainment on the stage of the Palace theater as a feature of the Fourth War Loan.

A limited number of tickets will be available at the door tonight for persons who have not yet obtained theirs from banks, building and loan associations, the theater or any member of the Rotary club.

Performances will start at 6.30 and 9:15 tonight.

The all-military show, the "Air Service Command Varieties," is billed as one of top entertainment features to come out of the armed forces, and its cast is made up almost entirely of men who were in "This Is the Army." The military show group will include about 50 persons, and this part of the program will run about an hour.

The film to be shown tonight will be "Miracle of Morgan's Creek," starring Betty Hutton and Eddy Bracken, a war picture with an American locale.

Sale Moves Briskly

Reports this morning showed there had been a lively ticket sale late last week, with comparatively few seats remaining this morning. Today's sales were expected to make the event a near-sellout.

Tonight's show is one of the special events designed to help swell Marion county's sales of E bonds, the only series of government securities for which Marion county has not yet topped its Fourth War Loan quota. A sell-out of tonight's event would mean a total of $112,000. A considerable part of this amount has already been reported in the drive as the tickets were sold.

The 50 servicemen from Patterson Field were expected to arrive in Marion by bus about 3 o'clock this afternoon. They will be given a dinner tonight at Hotel Harding, and will return to Patterson

Forecaster Expects Six-Month Drouth To End Soon in Ohio

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7—Ohio's winter drouth—next most severe in weather bureau history—should end soon, but that is not a forecast it will, Meteorologist George W. Mindling said today.

"All things have to end—even droughts—and this one has run much longer than is normally expectable for winter months," he declared after statewide reports showed the six-month average ended Jan. 31 totaled only 3.7 inches of rainfall compared with a normal of 17.27 inches.

"I would not make a prediction * * * but all past conditions point to its termination soon," he added.

Only in the six months October 1930 through March 1931 when precipitation totaled 3.31 inches

PARAMUSHIRO ISLAND HIT IN SURPRISE RAID

Ships Steam In Close to Shore To Make First Attack on Enemy Home Soil.

By NORMAN BELL
AP War Correspondent

ABOARD A U. S. DESTROYER IN THE NORTH PACIFIC, Feb. 4—(Delayed)—United States warships bombarded Japan at home for the first time today and caught the enemy by surprise.

A bombardment lasting about 20 minutes battered the harbor and land installations of Kurabu point on the southern tip of Paramushiro island.

Enemy gunners, either surprised or attempting to put out star shells which preceded the heavy blasting, fired into the air when the attack first started. Then, giving evidence of becoming more rattled, they fired along their own beaches and at the Pacific ocean and sea of Ohkotsk.

No ship of the attacking force, which steamed under bright moonlight within five miles of the shore, batteries, was hit.

The task force was commanded by Rear Admiral Wilder D. Baker operating under Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the North Pacific fleet. Both messaged ships and crews following the attack congratulating them on being the first to bombard Japanese home territory.

Army Represented

The army also was represented aboard Admiral Baker's flagship by Major General Davenport Johnson, commander 11th air force, and Brig. Gen. E. D. Post, chief of staff to Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, commander of the Alaskan department. The presence of General Post came while troops of the Alaskan department engaged in assault maneuvers which possibly will be aimed at Paramushiro.

The wild nature of the Japanese gunnery indicated they feared an invasion was already underway. Tracer bullets from some of their guns spurted along the shoreline, apparently aimed at shadows or imaginary landing barges.

This destroyer on which I rode as the only war correspondent accompanying the task force was skippered by Commander Harry Smith, former flag lieutenant to Admiral Fletcher in the Coral sea fighting and at the battle of Midway.

Two weeks ago I became the first war correspondent over Japanese home soil when I made a bombing mission with navy planes over the same part of Paramushiro.

The planes of Commander Leslie E. Gehres' fleet air wing four were back last night, the second consecutive night of their resumed "Tokyo Short Line Express." They hit shortly after the bombardment.

Watching for Planes

The island defenders perhaps had been watching for them instead of glancing out to sea once in awhile because alert shore watchers might easily have seen the dark silent shadows of the approaching ships without use of any detecting devices.

The island was clearly visible from the ships—its snow-covered mass rearing white, cold and lightless from the sea. The blackout supported belief the Japanese expected another air attack.

A division of destroyers under Commander Hunter Hood, who captained the destroyer Smith when it was struck on the forward deck by a flaming Japanese Zero in South Pacific action, led heavier ships of the task force into shelling position along the eastern side of Kurabu point. The remainder of the force, led by Captain H. L. Gearing, another dashing navy commander, swung westward toward the sea of Ohkotsh and bombarded from that side.

The "open fire" order came at 2.30 a. m. by our watches 9.30 p. m. Japan time. "Here we go," said Lt. (JG) Eli Hill of Dawson, Ga., communications and assistant gunnery officer with whom I stood on the director platform above the destroyer's bridge.

Star shells made the snow-white shore bright and seemingly close enough to hit with a rock. Then the bombardment got underway in earnest. It was centered on buildings or other shore ob-

MESA DEMANDS COOPERATION

Union Counsel Attends Hearing on Strike in Ohio, Michigan Plants.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Counsel for the Mechanics Educational Society of America intimated at a war labor board hearing today that the end of a strike in 44 Michigan and Ohio war plants depends on "cooperation" from the WLB.

William L. Brooker, MESA attorney, told the board only the union's national administrative board can order the strike terminated and added that if the WLB "will cooperate I think this can be terminated in a few hours. If it has to be prolonged it will be prolonged."

He was not asked what form that cooperation would have to take but union officials have called for a WLB order freezing MESA's status as bargaining representative in the struck plants, which is the central issue of the strike.

The exchange came after Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB had told Brooker his appearance was not a satisfactory response to subpoenas for the two principal officers of the union.

The attorney said General Sec-

ONE FOX BAGGED IN AREA NEAR WALDO

Sportsmen Open Drive Against Poultry Raiders.

A fox hunt staged by the Marion County Fish and Game association in the vicinity of Waldo Saturday netted one female red fox. One fox rounded up by the 35 sportsmen got away. The hunt, arranged by O. H. Niemeyer, deputy game warden in the county, Ivan Nickel and Harry Cook, was held on the Nickel and Cook farms, and the fox was captured in the vicinity of Dave's garage.

Another hunt will be staged next Saturday in the vicinity of Claridon. Hunters planning to take part are asked to meet at Claridon promptly at 1 p. m. Boys wishing to join the hunt must accompany some person who will be responsible for them and must be armed with shotguns, not rifles.

The hunts are being held to help rid the farms of foxes which, the farmers say, are raiding their poultry. There are more foxes in the county this year than there have been for many years, a member of the association states.

The pelt of the fox captured Saturday will be sold and the proceeds used to restock with game.

Garden Seeds Go on Sale Early with Plentiful Supply

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7—Garden seed was on sale today in Ohio two months ahead of schedule, because early-season demands of victory gardeners, and seed specialists said there would be enough to "go around."

The only scarcity is in cabbage and tomato seed, said C. C. Finch, Ohio Farm Bureau horticulturist, who reported plenty of other seed and garden fertilizer available.

Ohio State university seed specialists urged candidates not to overstock. Most seed saved from last year still is good, they said, urging gardeners to test it between pieces of damp blotting paper for a week or so to make sure it will not sprout before buying more. Finch said the average cost of seed this year was up 10 to 12 per cent because of increased production costs.

University crop experts expressed hope there would be no let-up in the victory garden program this year.

They said some persons might find store shelves packed and feel it was unnecessary to plant a garden, not realizing this stock was available because so many persons raised the bulk of their food supplies in 1943.

"This might work a real hardship on the nation, and could bring a real food shortage next year," said Horticulturist Victor H. Reis.

CHANGE IN HIGHWAY SYSTEM IS PROPOSED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7 — The state committee of the Ohio Citizens league today urged the Ohio highway commission to contends would take politics out of the state highway system.

Replying to a request of the commission, appointed to revise and recodify state and road laws, the committee recommended a part-time bipartisan state highway commission of five members, appointed by the governor for overlapping five-year terms and with authority to appoint the chief highway engineer.

The group also recommended appointment of county highway engineers by county commissioners instead of as election as at present.

The committee claimed that major advantage of such a plan the commission would determine highway policy and the chief engineer would carry them out an overlapping commission would insure continuity in policy, the chief engineer would be a more permanent official, sheltered against partisan and pressure group interference, the highway staff would become a permanent trained staff of experienced employes such an administrator setup would result in better highways and greater economy and efficiency in administration.

"In the state where the balance of political power is always so evenly balanced that there are frequent turnovers in political control and consequent changes in the administration of highways, this important function of government has been made the football of partisan politics," the committee stated in its report.

"The administration of, as big a business as that of highways in a large and populous state like Ohio, which spends about $60,000,000 a year on its highways, calls for continuity of administrative policy.

THIS IS A CHILD OF EUROPE. She was left behind when our armies moved up last night and the Nazis retreated. There she lay, terror-stricken in the screaming confusion. Hurt and helpless. If an Army nurse hadn't found her and treated her with life-saving sulfa, she would have died.

To make these sulfa drugs, as well as gunpowder and other battlefield essentials . . . we need glycerine. We need it badly because our imports are cut down, our demands so very high. But you, the American housewife, can supply it, by saving every drop of used cooking fat. Save it in a can, not glass. Any sort of can will do. When the can's full, rush it to your meat dealer. It's needed so urgently that for every pound of fat you turn in, he will give you 4¢ and two meat ration points, free. Start saving your used fats now to make the medicinals and the shells and bullets our men must have to fight this war to a finish.

Latest Poll of Labor Unions Registers Gain for G. O. P.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 7—... majority of the Democratic ... ing the rank and file ... of labor has shown a ... the since mid-December, the when coincides ... rising criticism of Presi... by union leaders. ... In spite of the down... the rank and file of ... labor is still nearly 2... Democratic. What effect the ... opposition views of some ... leaders will have on ... thinking of the mem... the next few weeks or ... remains to be seen. For ..., there can be no ... that the trend of labor ... ment has been steadily ... the Roosevelt administration ... especially during the ... months.

As presidential candi... concerned, those union ... who favor a Republican ... president pick Governor ... E. Dewey as their top ... today. General Douglas ... MacArthur ranks next and Wendell L. Willkie third.

Union members who favor a Democrat gave an overwhelming vote for President Roosevelt as their choice for Democratic nomination. Vice President Henry A. Wallace ranks second.

These political sentiments are revealed in cross-section surveys conducted by the Institute throughout the rank and file of organized labor—the A. F. of L., the CIO, and the independent unions—from coast to coast.

Each union member interviewed was asked, first, what party he would prefer to see win the presidential election this November. The results are given below, together with the trend as revealed in previous surveys. The figures apply to all organized labor as a whole, not to union members in any one union or in any particular section of the country, such as Kentucky, where the Democratic vote in the coal mining areas fell off sharply in the election last November.

UNION LABOR MEMBERS

	Dem.	Rep.
1936 Election	80%	20%
1940 Election	72	28
June, 1943	69	31
December	66	34
TODAY	64	36

Each union member interviewed in recent surveys by the Institute was shown a list of presidential candidates most often talked about for 1944, and asked to indicate his present choice for nomination. The results are given below.

In the following table the labor union vote applies only to union members who choose a Republican for president, were Roosevelt not a possible candidate. Willkie's strength with laboring groups would be substantially higher, previous surveys have indicated.

In addition to the labor union vote, the results for the whole nation based on those who named a Republican are given for comparison:

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE CHOICES

	Labor Union Members	All U. S.
Dewey	41%	42%
MacArthur	29	18
Willkie	20	23
Bricker	5	6
Stassen	3	6

The choices of labor union members who named a Democratic candidate for president show a one-sided picture in favor of Roosevelt, as follows:

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE CHOICES
(Among Labor Union Members)

Roosevelt	88%
Wallace	6
Farley	3
Byrnes	1
McNutt	1
Marshall	1

One of the 32 atolls in the Marshalls is named "New Year."

FEEDING OF WHEAT THREATENS SUPPLY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—Use of wheat to feed livestock and poultry, made necessary by the unavailability of corn in some sections of the country, is another concern among grain experts. They wonder if the country has sufficient wheat to continue this feeding program.

Dealers in cash grain said today some of the best wheat this country produces was being utilized for feeding. The wheat is either purchased by the Commodity Credit Corporation or obtained when producers fail to redeem loans, and then is sold only for feeding purposes.

When the war started, this country had large quantities of wheat but the supply has been dwindling rapidly under an enormous demand and the Millers National Federation has said if the feeding program is not curtailed a shortage of wheat for human food may be expected.

Thus far, the abundance of wheat has contrasted sharply with the experience in the first World war. Wheat was a precious item in 1917-18 and the country had regular "wheatless Wednesdays."

For a time wheat was sold to millers only if they also purchased a certain amount of other grains. The bread manufactured had a smaller quantity of wheat and was referred to as "victory bread."

Much of the decline in bread consumption after the war was attributed to this "victory bread." Many people did not like it and got out of the bread eating habit.

Marion Recruiting Station Tops List

The U. S. Navy recruiting station in Marion stood at the top of the list of all sub-stations in northwestern Ohio for having the greatest number of enlistments of WAVES and 17-year-old boys during January, according to figures released by Chief Petty Officer John J. Dugan. The Marion area includes Crawford, Hardin, Marion and Wyandot counties.

The Navy has announced it demands for WAVES to fill 6,000 jobs now being held by men eligible to do sea duty, according to Chief Dugan. More than 240 different type of work, formerly performed by men of the Navy, are now being handled by WAVES, reports show.

Old Age Pensioners Hold Program Meeting

The Old Age Pension Society of Marion county held a combined business and program meeting Friday forenoon at the Salvation Army citadel. Guest on the program included Rev. Nola West and mother, and the Bell Sisters, Miss Jewell Bell and Mrs. Carrie Skeen of Wilburn Dam, Ky. The invocation was by L. D. Carwile, and the group prayed the Lord's Prayer, sang "America" and gave the pledge to the Flag. A talk was given by William L. White and reports on recipients were given by Mrs. Dessie Sharp, Sgt. Major Lillian Lover, T. T. Manhard and William F. Porter. It was decided to attend the service to be conducted by Rev. [illegible] and her mother, Sunday evening. A song by the choir, "Trust and Obey," was followed by talk by Rev. Nola West and she and her sister and they also sang two more, "Victory Through Jesus" and "Hide Thou Me." Mr. Bell sang "Ruben, Down the Campion" and with his sister, Mrs. Skeen, sang several numbers, playing their own guitar accompaniments. A quartet composed of Mr. Bell, Mrs. Skeen, W. E. Sergent and Clara Ruth sang "My Old Kentucky Home" and "When the Saints Go Marching In" and the choir sang "Shall We Gather at the River." Presiding were Arthur Hershiser, president, and W. E. Sergent, secretary. Approximately 115 attended. The benediction was spoken by Rev. Nola West.

REDS IGNORE POLISH RULE

Moscow To Recognize New Group in Settlement of Border Difficulties.

By The Associated Press

Moscow's [illegible] broadcast [illegible] publication of the official [illegible] the establishment of a new Polish state independent of the old Polish state, [illegible] as a [illegible] Polish territorial problems in her own way.

This development coincided with a bitter Soviet attack on Bolshevik and a campaign [illegible] on the Fifth Anniversary of Hitler's events generally interpreted here as portending to more tension between the two countries in some connections with Germany.

The tipoff on Russia's intentions toward Poland came in a Moscow broadcast declaring that as Red army troops drive out the German invaders "a new democratic Poland will arise and all conditions for friendly cooperation of the Ukrainian and Polish peoples will be created."

Door Open to Others

The broadcast added the establishment of a separate foreign office in the Ukrainian Soviet Republic would create stimulus for "a friendly rapprochement of these states and may require conclusion of special agreements for strengthening the[se] friendly connections between them."

This statement gave added significance to action taken at Moscow last week extending to the 16 separate Soviet republics the right to handle their own foreign affairs.

It appeared here the strategically-located Ukraine was slated for a key role in a Soviet plan to settle boundary issues and at the same time build a powerful Slav bloc against future German aggression. There also was a hint of the role which other individual Soviet republics may be expected to play in the settlement of important frontier problems.

Ignored Entirely

Indicating the Polish government-in-exile in London was to be ignored entirely in this plan, the Moscow broadcast said "the emigre Polish government not infrequently displays imperialistic, pro-Fascist tendencies in its Politics" and added:

"It is obvious that such tendencies preclude even the possibility of friendly agreement."

Significantly, perhaps, it was disclosed Alexander E. Korneichuk has been named commissar of foreign affairs for the Ukrainian Soviet republic. Korneichuk, who resigned last week as the Kremlin's vice commissar of foreign affairs, has opposed Poland's claims to her pre-war eastern borders and is the husband of Wanda Vassilevska, president of the Union of Polish Patriots in Moscow.

In the Production Drive . . . in the 4th War Loan Drive

He's beating his Quota to beat the Axis!

WE BOUGHT EXTRA WAR BONDS
4TH
WAR LOAN

Display your colors

Every patriotic home in America will want to display this emblem. Paste it on your front door or on a window to show that you have done your part in the 4th War Loan.

HE IS AN AMERICAN WORKER. A man like yourself, perhaps. Or your next door neighbor. They say the job he is doing is a "miracle of production." But he knows better. Fancy words are not for him. He knows that the "miracle" is just hard work. He knows that the tanks, guns, planes and munitions that come in a never ending stream from America's factories are the result of the sweat and toil of millions. And he is proud of the part he is playing to beat his quota in the Production Drive.

He is proud, too, of the part he is playing to help his plant beat its quota in the 4th War Loan Drive. For he is making more money today than he ever has, and he realizes that part of those extra wartime earnings MUST, in all decency, go to back up our boys at the battlefronts.

That's why every worker who is purchasing War Bonds regularly on the payroll plan is asked to increase the amount during this drive. You are asked to invest in extra War Bonds—to do your part to help your plant meet its quota.

Have a Heart—Do Your Part

Every American is being asked, during this 4th War Loan Drive to invest in extra Bonds. Buy at least one extra $100 Bond. A Series E War Savings Bond will cost you only $75, and you get back $4 for every $3 invested, if held to maturity. Invest more if you possibly can—$200, $300, $400—invest to the very limit of your ability and hold the Bonds you buy!

You'll be helping your country—and you'll be helping yourself.

Build for Your Future With the World's Safest Investment

All over the country men and women look to the future with confidence. They are the ones who have put part of their extra wartime earnings into the world's safest investment—U. S. Government War Bonds.

Yes, they are helping their country in its grimmest struggle. But they are helping themselves, too! They are helping to secure their future, to weather any troubled days that may lie ahead.

What about you? Are you letting the dollars slip through your fingers—dollars that should be put safely away in War Bonds?

There are War Bonds to fit your needs . . . Bonds are backed up by the strongest "company" in the world. Build that home you have always dreamed about. Send your child to college. Buy the wonderful things that are coming after the war.

A Notable Anniversary

WILL it be possible, after this war ends, to create a world brotherhood among men, dedicated to peace, without sacrificing love of one's own country?

Everyone acquainted with Scouting, which this week celebrates its 34th anniversary in America, knows that the answer is yes. The Boy Scout organization is almost worldwide. Patriotism and friendliness, and respect for other men's religious beliefs, all are part of the Scout Oath and Law. The World Jamborees of a outing were international gatherings which might well set a pattern for statesmen to follow.

Not everybody likes world brotherhood. Adolf Hitler, on coming to power, abolished Scouting in every occupied country. Yet it continues "underground." Someday, along with free speech, a free press and untrammeled religion, it will emerge from hiding.

It takes better boys today to build a better world tomorrow. The success of the Scout movement, in America and in other United Nations, proves that the principles of Scouting will triumph in the end. Scouting will continue to further participating citizenship and a world brotherhood in the years following the war.

People of Marion county and other counties making up the Harding Boy Scout area have reason to be proud and happy over the fact that here the Scout movement is going strong and increasing in size and activity. In no other locality is there more reason for enthusiastic public participation in this anniversary week celebration.

Convincing Demonstration

CLEAREST demonstration ever staged of War Bonds bringing victory closer has been the successful operation in the Marshall islands.

Overwhelming superiority in equipment crushed Japan's defense, with minimum loss of life and material for the attacking force. Judged by the communiques, the Japanese simply were overwhelmed.

That was made possible by American war production, which in turn was made possible by money. Less than half the money was raised by taxes. The rest was raised by appealing to the people and their organizations for their savings; i.e., the money they spared for investment in victory.

Victory, in turn, secures the investment. Each fresh military success makes the people's War Bonds safer. Each War Bond helps military success by providing the financial wherewithal to furnish the material and stabilize the nation so the material will keep coming.

To the list of things accomplished in the Marshalls should be added: Proof that overwhelming striking force made possible by War Bonds is the secret of success in the United States war effort.

Dr. Benes Lays His Bets

DR. EDWARD BENES, graduate of the hard school of diplomacy in which secondary powers struggle for existence, has explained to the state council of the Czechoslovak government-in-exile in London why he considers its foreign policy secure under a treaty binding its fortunes with Russia.

Russia, he believes, is prepared to exercise the responsibility of its war-won position in Europe in an enlightened manner. He recalls that he was urging understanding of Russia and cooperation with Russia long before the incident at Munich, which he says could not have happened if Russia had been given the confidence of the powers of western Europe, meaning Great Britain and France. The link with the Soviet Union, he declares, is the guarantee of Czechoslovakia's frontiers, "the guarantee that Munich can never happen again . . . a guarantee of our independence and of our republic such as has never previously been vouchsafed us."

Dr. Benes' responsibility, like that of his teacher, the Czech philosopher and statesmen, Masaryk, is to secure Czechoslovakia's sovereignty and territory against the power politicians of Europe. His formula failed when Munich occurred; he now looks for a better formula. His reasoning is typical of that of many graduates of the school of hard knocks in European diplomacy. Having tried the possibilities of an arrangement which excluded Russia, they cannot be blamed for trying the possibilities of an arrangement which includes Russia.

News Behind the News

Probable Senate Action Against Food Subsidies Presents Problem for President.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The senate probably will put the ban on food subsidies—and what will Mr. Roosevelt do then, with the fourth term campaign under way with Phil Murray, pleading for "real wage increases," and the consumers shouting audibly about prices?

The generally protected opposition has been that he will veto the ban and continue to pay the middlemen free treasury money to hold wholesale prices down while upping an increase to the farmer. The congressional and farm leader is literally heard about this and I have made private plans to squeeze him around to their way.

But OPA authority expires July 1 shortly before the renomination. If he vetoes this ban they intend to clip another into the OPA bill which he cannot veto without losing his whole price regulation program.

Certainly all the newly generated administration heat here-about, therefore, already is being turned on the senate to get a compromise which will extricate the White House from its worst political predicament.

Evidence

Lately, reports have come in from the farm belt indicating the men in the fields were not so strong against Roosevelt, but all evidence locally suggests the contrary. The farm organization leaders here have been off the front pages lately, but their ire has not diminished, nor has their intention to circumvent the President.

True, nearly all farm prices are now above official parity. Also, the administration has been quietly inching up its subsidy payments. Flour, most important farm food product has been slipped into the subsidy list, as has grapefruit juice.

Moreover, his Commodity Credit corporation has been functioning all along in a quieter subsidy way with price stabilization loans and buying.

Wickard

Conspicuously, Agriculture Secretary Wickard has come out with a new post-war farm program, which sounds big—post-war production greater even than now. But all these efforts have a mouldy underside, which the farm congressmen say will guarantee a heavy majority against Roosevelt in farm states.

The Wickard program can be accepted as the Democratic plank in the platform to be adopted in Chicago, but an analysis will show it contemplates consolidation of small farm units into larger operations and abandonment of acreage on three crops which can be produced more cheaply offshore, presumably mostly Canada, Argentina, Mexico and cuba from around the world—thus it to be done to strengthen friendly relations with foreign peoples and promote world peace.

Gravy

Also, the politics of the food subsidy program appeals only to the class of farmers who do not pay taxes, to buy bonds, apparently the smallest of the small. To them only is it gravy. The others realize they are paying part of their own subsidies in taxation.

Obviously, as smart a political manipulator as Mr. Roosevelt is not going to let this adverse situation go into the campaign. What will he do?

If he gives Phil Murray the steel wage increase, he will have to give the farmers some more price increases, and in either event, life will alienate the consumers, who are the biggest bloc of voters.

Ordinarily, you would think he would just let farm prices gradually rise until election day (the customary way), but this too will entail difficulties with labor and consumer. Usually, his technique is to give all claimants a little bit, but this would be difficult in the present tight wage-price condition, and probably would please no one.

Best Reasons For Buying Bonds

Jap barbarities have increased bond sales, the news stories say. Any reason for buying bonds is a good one, but the best one is not emotional hate, but plain common sense. A bond is the best place for money today for any citizen.

It is the best place to put money for the future education of your young children and the best place to provide for your old age. It is a wise buy to save money for building a future home, for paying future taxes.

But best of all, you can there deposit your money for the automobiles, refrigerators, radios, house painting, vacuum cleaners, and what you will need when this war is over.

If you are not a good hater, buy as a wise investor.

Contest for No. 2 Position

By Jack Stinnett.

THIS year the Democrats aren't going to be deprived of an old-fashioned scrap over the vice presidential nominee, even if they do "draft" Franklin Roosevelt for a fourth term.

Two leading candidates for Democrat No. 2 are in the field. They are Vice President Wallace, who launched his campaign with the avowed intent of extending the policies of the New Deal, and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, a conservative by nature and an old-time party Democrat of long, unblemished standing.

An Associated Press poll of the Democratic national committee when it met in Washington showed them about equally favored, with Mr. Wallace having a slight edge.

Third place fell to James A. Farley, whose nomination would be a miracle. Such men as Fiorello La Guardia, James F. Byrnes and Sen. Harry S. Truman can't be written off, either. Even if the convention assembles with the sole intention of nominating Mr. Roosevelt on the first ballot, delegates are going to have something to say about his running mate. He won't be able to make the nomination, himself, as he virtually did in 1940.

At no time in Mr. Roosevelt's career has his selection of a running mate been so important to party unity and perhaps even to preventing a split in the party at the polls.

Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, national committee chairman, succeeding Postmaster General Walker, got his job because Walker wanted him and neither the White House nor any important party faction had any serious objection.

Whether he is a "second Farley" remains to be seen. He was the first to deny any such comparison, declaring he wasn't skilled or even familiar with big-time national politics. His only comment about Farley was "I like him and I hope he likes me." Observers attach considerable importance to the fact that one of his first acts was to hie to New York for a session with the man who headed the party national committee until he bitterly walked out on the third term.

Some observers here think Farley, still potent nationally, is more amenable to reconciliation now than at any time. If young Hannegan can effect that or even contribute to it, he will have won his spurs.

Pep Pills

Pep pills in one form or another are used by all the modern armies in World War II, says Business Week. Reported first in use by the Germans on their Blitzkrieg in 1940, the stimulants now are widely known. Generally, the magazine explains, they take one of two forms and sometimes both types are used concurrently. Massive doses of vitamins and some form of the family of drugs either closely or remotely related to ephedrine, the botanical which forms the basis for many nose drop preparations and which, taken internally, increase blood pressure.

"The synthetic being used by the U. S. army and probably to a large extent by the armies of the United Nations," Business Week reports, "is Benzedrine, trade name for a chemical compound having the non-proprietary technical name of amphentamine. Government purchases of Benzedrine tablets for the U. S. military forces and lend-lease shipments, though secret, are believed to be very large. It is understood the tablets are included in jungle first aid kits and that army medical boards issued instructions for the use of the drug near battle line in order to relieve extreme mental and physical fatigue."

Tantalite

Probably you never heard of tantalite, a war mineral so vital every belligerent is looking for it and only a few are finding it, so secret its use can't be revealed.

According to the office of the coordinator of inter-American affairs, a file is being built up on the mineral's place in the war. America's search centers in the interior of Brazil. Since Pearl Harbor, geologists have been scouring a 3,600-square mile area there, with enough success to give Brazil the distinction of producing 52 per cent of the world's supply. Australia and South Africa are the only other known sources.

More than 3,000 Brazilian natives are employed in digging out the ore, crushing it and washing it by hand. The water used for washing often has to be carried for miles. It takes 3,000 tons of ore to produce one ton of tantalite.

Now a sound-proof member of the tantalum family, named, fittingly, from the same word root as the word "tantalize." Deposits are found with other metals, and finding them is said to be even harder than finding the proverbial needle in the proverbial haystack.

Civilian Conduct in Wartime

By M. Stanley Rukeyser

International News Service Writer.

PROPER wartime conduct for a conscientious, patriotic civilian is difficult to define.

Reason, rather than sentiment, should determine the civilian's behavior pattern.

None of us should be so stupid as "to compete with our own survival."

On the other hand, stay-at-homes should concentrate on being productive and on making their maximum contribution to the nation's strength, rather than on merely appearing to be playing the game.

From the best of motives, some civilians mistakenly overdo the "sackcloth and ashes" role.

One elderly woman, for example, boasted that for patriotic reasons she has been buying nothing except food, drugs and other fundamental products needed to keep metabolism going. Her idea was to avoid raising prices through her demand and to avoid competing with the government for scarce goods. But in standing aside from the market place to such an exaggerated extent, she may—and in all likehood will—do more harm than good.

Her abstinence tends to unemploy clerks in the stores, workers in the needle trades, toilers in agriculture and in mining and in quarrying.

The object in wartime is to give governmental war requirements precedence and to release enough materials and manpower to provide for esential war needs. But this does not require throwing out of employment those persons not needed in the making of muntions and in the armed services.

IF conscientious desire to abstain from unnecessary travel inhibits civilian vacations away from home, the possibility for rest periods at home should be thoroughly canvassed.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world.

The Florida vacation boom indicates some are not quite so conscientious as others.

It seems justified for busy men to take civilian furloughs, and they should not be criticized. Others are in a different status and are actuated by different motives. Some are even deterred from productive and useful work by a confiscatory tax rate, preferring to live in idleness on principal.

In normal peace times, such persons might be entitled to strike against confiscatory taxation, based on fallacious reasoning. But in time of war, when the survival of the nation is at stake, men should be willing to make their contribution even in the face of political mistreatment. Otherwise, in punishing a group of politicians, they will also be punishing and handicapping the nation, to which they owe a rich sense of loyalty and duty.

After the war, the prudent politician will be able to relate an appealing story. He will be able to make available to civilians more goods and services through stopping the present high rate of confiscation. Post-war governmental economy, in reducing the diversion of goods and services to the government, will provide citizens a windfall through permitting them to consume a larger portion of what they produce.

AT a time when changing strategy entails industrial cutbacks, there is a delicate problem of shifting manpower and machine power quickly from one type of useful employment to another.

Compulsory and voluntary rationing both give a civilian a sense of balance and demonstrate to him not only what not to consume but also what to consume.

There is a second type of personal problem. Every sensitive civilian recognizes that his sacrifices in wartime are trifling, compared with those of our fighting men on military fronts, on the sea and in the air. Accordingly, sensitive civilians are inclined to try not to coddle themselves.

Within reason, that is a wholly constructive tendency.

But, if overdone, it too may be disadvantageous to the nation.

For example, some civilians are deliberately overworking, to the extent of making an overdraft on their vitality. Conscience assures them that those in the service are doing much more.

Such a sentimental yardstick may lead to foolish conclusions.

Older civilians certainly should recognize limitations resulting from the condition of their heart, lungs, liver, and arteries. They are not able to emulate the extraordinary performances in the field of a select group of physically fit young persons who have gone through the stage of initial medical selection and extended pre-battle training.

A civilian who refuses to rest and relax may be overlooking the fact that he has not been conditioned for unusual strain and exertion. Even before the war, in 1929, men in responsible positions have been tending to shorten their lives through ordinary overwork.

Day of Reckoning

Judgment of History Awaited Decision To Leave Heroes of Philippines Without Help.

By DAMON RUNYON

HOW will history view our military [illegible] the Philippines, the memory of [illegible] revived by the tales of Japanese [illegible] and our captured soldiers?

Will the failure to attempt to relieve MacArthur and his beleaguered men be accepted as something wholly unpreventable and perhaps even militarily necessary, or will analysts see it as one of the most cowardly abandonments in the annals of any nation?

You will remember that the [illegible] managed at the time to dismiss the Philippines as a minor incident of the war, as a circumstance that did not amount to [illegible] against the background of larger events.

You will remember that even as our [illegible] boys and our Filipino troops were making a stand on Bataan peninsula that for fortitude and valor surpassed any forlorn hope deed in the history of the world, we had the astounding situation in this country of news [illegible] columnists telling us we should not allow [illegible] from the attempt to save other peoples [illegible] for the sake of rescuing our own.

They managed to make the public almost forget Bataan, or to recall it only as a matter of military expediency. But the war has been going on for some time and the Philippines remain our greatest debacle [illegible] of men and territory.

ONE of these days the cold light of [illegible] will be thrown upon the matter. Men [illegible] talk now and the apologists may find difficulty explaining the [illegible] refraining from even the slightest effort to [illegible] MacArthur.

There must have been someone of our military or naval men who, unappalled by the dire problem, said "Let us attempt thus and so or the glowing tradition of our armed forces are all false. But only history can tell the whole story of the great betrayal of the men of Bataan that ended in the murder of many of them by torture in prison camps.

Those expressions of rage that we are [illegible] "roared out in congress" the other day, [illegible] cries of "hang the Mikado's" and "bomb Japan out of existence" etc. would sound more impressive but for the fact they emanate, in many cases, from supporters of the policy that sacrificed the defenders of Bataan.

I leave it to history to decide the right and wrong of this sacrifice, but the policy that failed the men of Bataan is the same policy that temporized with the Japs right down to Pearl Harbor and that from the beginning has declined to take the war with Japan as our first importance.

IT IS the policy of laxity in the handling of interned Japanese in the United States which has tolerated the utmost impudence from them even as their people were beheading our captured aviators and torturing to death our soldiers of the Philippines. It is the policy that has kept MacArthur on short rations in the matter of supplies.

We are doing a powerful lot of threatening in this war, most of it so incompatible with our own ideas of Christianity that it is perfectly obvious that the more sanguinary [illegible] will never be carried out. But I think you ought to know about the dire threat of one of our statesmen, in Washington of the severe [illegible] he will take against Japan "unless she abandons such inhumane conduct" (as the torturing of soldiers.) Note the "unless." I reckon that blood-curdling promise will make the monkeys [illegible] and shiver.

We have two great Americans who know the Japs and who have been on record about them long before publication of the savageries in the Philippines. Two Americans have summed up the enemy briefly and thoroughly and I quote them:

"A Jap is a Jap."—Gen. Dewitt.

"The only good Jap is one that has been dead six months."—Adm. Halsey.

Head Pouches

By Truman Twill

Consider the man's hat. It is the shape of a kangaroo's pouch turned inside out with a surplus made into a brim to keep the sun out of the man's eyes when he is wearing it on his head, and that is a funny place to wear a pouch. All this has occurred to the man, too.

He can have his hat in a variety of colors named after the shades used for women's stockings, but like the words on French menus, these all resolve themselves finally into such commonplace things as brown, black, green and gray, which is as far as the man's imagination goes.

He also has a wide choice of shapes, men say there are head pouches for every kind of face, but it is strange how the round heads end up on the oblong shapes and the square heads up in the round ones. This is because only a man out of 10 knows what he wants and he hasn't time to look for it.

All men ever know for sure about their hats is that some woman, who may be their wife, says one day, "That is a disgraceful looking thing you are wearing on your head. Why don't you get a hat?" So a man goes to a store and asks for a hat, and that is all he gets.

He is unhappy about it for the first few months, but after that he begins to forget about it. He leaves it lying on a chair and the dog plays with it. Or a fat woman sits down on it. Or it falls on the floor and someone steps on it. Or if none of these accidents happen he mauls it himself, and finally it gets comfortable, and he is contented.

It gets rained on, and dirt falls on it. He grabs it with dirty hands when he has been working on the automobile. He puts it on instead when he has a disagreeable repair job to perform and wants to keep the dirt out of his hair. The sun fades it, the perspiration stains it and time and the elements make it look old and finally the man doesn't resent the hat any more.

Then some woman, who may be the same one as before and also may be his wife says, "That is a disgraceful looking thing you are wearing on your head. Why don't you get a hat?" And the man goes through the whole business again. This happens to some men oftener than it happens to others, but it happens eventually to all men and is the main reason they don't insist on more imagination in the way their hats are made. The men are smart enough to know that as long as they wear them stuck to kangaroo pouches turned inside out, no one but women will notice whether or not they are sporting a new one, a new shape, or something that kangaroos have been inhabiting for a long time and is not only economical but very comfortable.

So They Say—

We prayed. We prayed hard, and we [illegible] it.—Army Nurse Lt. Margaret Jennings, [illegible] bombing of hospital ship Seminole at Naples.

In no way should the threat of strikes or the number of man-hours lost by strikes be considered, nor would production be increased by labor draft.—CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey.

Armory Receives Federal Inspection

Federal property inspection of the Marion armory was conducted Friday morning by Capt. Harry Malone of the adjutant general's department in Columbus and Master Sgt. Harry Osborn of the state staff. Capt. Carl Ebert, commanding officer of Co. H, announced today. All equipment was found to be in A-1 shape and the inspecting officers commended Staff Sgt. Kermit Q. Taylor highly, saying he had one of finest supply rooms in the state.

Co. H received six new rifles, additional first aid kits and other miscellaneous supplies. Capt. Ebert reported strength of the company to be 49 now, adding that it will probably be 44 by the end of the week. He urged all who are interested in enlisting to call at the armory during school tonight or drill period tomorrow.

Sgt. Tim Fahey supervised the range firing yesterday. It was announced that every other Sunday during February and March, the range in the Armory will be open from 1 to 3 p. m.

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

If, therefore, you are distressed by what you have regarded as only a "mild" case of piles, do not, by any means, allow that to be a reason for neglecting them.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, requires no anaesthetic nor the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

There is no undue exposure, and you will find that the dignity with which the examination is conducted will quickly make you lose any feeling of self consciousness.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Appointed for the fourth time!

FOR the last three years, this firm has been the local member of the Order of the Golden Rule. We have just been reappointed for another year.

The Order, as is quite generally known, is an international group of funeral directors who have included in their creed the principle of rendering fine modern service at a reasonable price. Members of the Order are readily identified by their use of the Symbol, reproduced here, and the motto of the Order: "Service Measured not by GOLD, but by the GOLDEN RULE".

We announce this reaffiliation with a glow of satisfaction; we pledge ourselves to a continuation of those principles for which the Order stands.

MISS MARY FRAYER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Frayer of the Clarkson road, and Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brown of Tulsa, Okla., were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at Emanuel Lutheran church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. M. E. Bollinger at 4:30 p. m.

The bride wore a princess style model with a sweetheart neckline. Flowers appliqued on the neck and sleeves also trimmed the skirt and train. She wore a flower pill which was held in place by a cap of pearls, and around her neck were a strand of crystal beads, gift of the groom's mother. Her flowers were white roses.

Miss Clara Frayer, who attended the bride as maid of honor, was costumed in pink marquisette and wore a short veil topped with a plumed tiara. She carried pink roses. The groom's sister Carolyn was the flower girl, and wore blue net over satin and a small veil held in place by white daisies. She carried a blue satin basket of rose petals. The candles were lighted by Mrs. Quayle Giles. Charles Smith served as best man and Kenneth and Russell Frayer, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a flowered jersey dress with navy accessories and a white corsage and Mrs. Brown wore pink carnations on a navy blue dress with navy accessories.

The altar of the church was banked with palms and flanked on either side with candelabra. Preceding the ceremony Miss Mary Ellen Mayers gave a half hour organ recital, and Mrs. Ruth Shuman of Richwood sang the following songs: "At Dawning," "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organ selections were "Indian Love Call," "Largo," "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," "Perfect Love," "My God and I," "Love's Old Sweet Song," and the traditional wedding marches.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church and later the bride's parents entertained members of the wedding party and immediate family with a dinner at Ringer's Inn. The bridal party was also entertained by the bride's two aunts, Mrs. Ellis Epley and Mrs. Hadley Mayers, Saturday night following the rehearsal, at the home of Mrs. Epley on South Grand avenue. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Shuman of Richwood, and Mrs. Jesse Brown and daughter Carolyn of Tulsa.

The new Mrs. Brown is a graduate of Claridon High school and is a member of Beta Gamma Chapter, Lamba Chi Omega Sorority. She is employed with the Sears and Roebuck Co. Mr. Brown is a craneman with the Marion Steam Shovel company. They will make their home at 359 West Church street.

MRS. DANIEL LA MARCHE of King avenue will entertain the Women's Hospital board at luncheon Wednesday noon. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Philip Guthery and Mrs. H. K. Mouser.

Mrs. E. W. Imbody of Concord avenue entertained the Senior Circle of the Child Conservation league Thursday evening. Mrs. K. J. Marble and Mrs. Fred Morris were co-hostesses. It was announced preparations are being made for the District Conference April 21 at the Hotel Harding. Mrs. Cecil Gabler was in charge of the program and conducted a panel discussion on "The Physical Development of the Child." The next meeting will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club and all past presidents will be guests.

Mrs. E. E. Glosser of Summit street was hostess to the Arbor Vitae club Friday afternoon. Mrs. Earl Thomas gave a talk "A Trip to Florida." Mrs. Glosser had charge of devotions and roll call was answered by repeating quotations from Lincoln.

Mrs. F. C. Harman entertained members of the Di Penates club with a dessert lunch Friday at her home on North State street. Contest awards were won by Mrs. Ray Williams, Mrs. J. E. Walters and Mrs. J. D. Jacobs.

Mrs. George Augenstein of George street entertained the Au Fait club Thursday evening. Honors in euchre went to Mrs. Walter Merrow, first and lone, Mrs. Nelson, second, and Mrs. Harry Gruber, third.

L. E. WEIR HONORED

Mrs. L. E. Weir of Kirkpatrick entertained directors and employes and wives of the Caledonia bank Friday evening in honor of Mr. Weir, who was celebrating his birthday. A dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Norris Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pommert, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Highley, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Underwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Irey.

man planes were getting out with officers while others were dropping desperately-needed food and ammunition.

Wet snow smaking skiing difficult hampered the Soviet fighters now drawn upon three sides of Narva in Estonia. Dispatches reported empty villages on the east bank of the Narova river, indicating all civilians had been moved westward by the Germans.

Capture by the key rail junction of Apostolovo, 34 miles west of Nikopol, by Gen. Malinovsky's army virtally sealed the fate of the five Nikopol divisions. It climaxed a four-day drive from the northeast which ripped 37 miles through the German lines on a 100-mile-long front between Nikopol and Krivoi Rog to occupy Marganets, less than 10 miles northeast of Nikopol.

Seven Divisions Routed

Seven Nazi divisions were routed, a Russian communique said. The enemy abandoned tremendous quantities of war equipment and left 12,000 dead on the battlefield. Two thousand more were captured as Malinovsky's infantry and tanks, covered by fleets of low-flying Stormovik divebombers, rolled forward, liberating 250 towns and villages.

Soviet triumphs in the past week foreshadow liberation of all southern Russia, Moscow advices said.

While Gens. Vatutin and Konev were systematically whittling down the German divisions at Cherkasy, in old Poland, Vatutin's center captured the town of Mlinov in a 30-mile drive from Rovno, which fell to the Russians on Saturday.

Vatutin's spearheads at another point were in Miroch, only 55 miles from the Odessa-Warsaw railway, principal supply artery for the German Dnieper bend armies.

Far to the north, Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army surged into Estonia, Moscow said, clearing the Germans from the eastern bank of Narova river above and below Narva, eight miles inside the pre-war frontier.

Berlin broadcasts said the Russians actually had crossed the Narova.

MESA

retary Matthew Smith and President George White could not attend the hearing without permission of the union's administrative board.

Davis replied by reading the law and remarked drily, "I see nothing in the statute about the executive council of the MESA."

Smith and White said in Cleveland they were ignoring the WLB order to come here.

Davis, after recessing the hearing while the WLB met in executive session, announced the hearing would be continued until 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. He said the board's legal department has been "instructed to do whatever is legally necessary to get compliance." He said the boar dhad also adopte da resolution calling upon the MESA leadership "to forthwith cal loff the strike."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) asked the department of justice to investigate the action of Smith and White, declaring "this is a serious situation, amounting to a strike against the government."

MESA Executive Board To Map Strategy

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7—The executive board of the independent Mechanics Educational Society of America scheduled a strategy meeting here today as the work stoppage of approximately 25,000 members in some 44 Michigan and Ohio war plants entered its fourth day.

MESA President George White and Secretary Matthew Smith said they were ignoring a national war labor board order to appear in Washington today for a hearing to determine whether sanctions should be applied against unionists participating in the walkout. Sanctions might include reclassification of strikers under selective service or withholding of union benefits.

Defies Board

Smith declared "if the war labor board wants to see me in Washington, they will have to come and get me."

The U. S. marshal's office in Detroit reported a subpoena issued for White still awaited his return to that city.

The walkouts began Friday in Toledo, O., in protest against national labor relations board procedure in a bargaining agency dispute involving the MESA and the CIO United Automobile Workers in a Willys-Overland Motor Co. tool room.

After the NLRB went ahead with its hearing, Smith issued the strike call, declaring the union was engaged in a "fight to survive in the face of the administration's support of the CIO and the consequent near-prohibition of independent unionism by the NLRB and WLB."

The MESA has demanded a WLB directive "freezing for the duration our representation in the plants under contract." The union claims 53,000 members.

Smith advised company officials "we have no dispute with your management and fervently hope that the disruption will not be forced upon your company by maladministration of labor laws in Washington."

24 Members Fired

Officials of the Northern Aircraft Products Division, Aviation Corp., at Toledo, disclosed 24 unionists had been dismissed for leaving their jobs "without justifiable complaint."

The stoppages center mainly in Cleveland, Detroit and Toledo. All MESA members did not heed the strike call, however. Approximately 7,000 employes remained at their jobs at the Cleveland Graphite Bronze Co. in Elyria, O., 1,200 unionists voted to remain at work pending outcome of today's executive board meeting.

Cleveland police patrolled entrances to five armament factories after Mayor Frank J. Lausche issued an appeal promising police protection to unionists who return to their jobs.

islands, together with several undefended cays of land, spread American control to 21 of the chief islands. Units of the Fourth Marine division previously secured the atoll's northern sector with seizure of Roi and other islets.

Tokyo News Is Stale

The Tokyo radio declared last night "intense fighting is still in progress on Kwajalein island." Its broadcasters gave American troops a needed laugh with the "news" Saturday night that Roi and adjoining Namur were still held by the emperor's forces.

As navy seabees began restoration of the bomb-torn, three-strip airfield on Roi island and army engineers tackled a similar job on Kwajalein island, Rear Admiral John S. Hoover, commander of American air forces in the central Pacific, declared there would be no delay in establishing new facilities for land-based planes.

He told Malcolm P. Johnson, representing the combined American press, that remaining Japanese garrisons on other atolls of the 30-odd Marshall islands would be blockaded from the air.

Associated Press War Correspondent Paul Beam quoted Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the U. S. Seventh army airforce, as saying that with the capture of Kwajalein air bases, "all the Marshalls and the eastern Carolines have been brought within range of our bombers—including Truk, which is just on the fringe of our bombers' new effective striking radius." The Truk naval bastion is 938 airline miles southwest of Kwajalein and 798 miles north of nearby neutralized Rabaul.

Other Atolls Hit

Army bombers and navy carrier planes kept up air assaults on other atolls in the Marshalls, striking Feb. 3, 4 and 5 at Jaluit, Eniwetok, Wotje, Maloelap, Mili and Uteland.

The Japanese lost between 24 and 30 more planes at Rabaul, New Britain, and Wewak, northern New Guinea over the weekend. Bombers unloaded 167 tons of bombs on Cape Hoskins, enemy supply and refueling base on the north-central coast of New Britain.

Gen. MacArthur's communique underlined the enemy's deteriorating air protection for Rabaul. Defense of Rabaul cost the Nipponese close to 500 planes last month.

Japanese recapture of Taung Bazaar on the Arkan front in southwestern Burma was disclosed by allied headquarters in New Delhi. American-trained Chinese troops retained the initiative in northern Burma.

Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters in Chungking reported sinking of at least six of a nine-ship enemy convoy off the southeast China coast Saturday by Liberator and Mitchell bombers.

Field after their two performances at the Palace. The troupe played in a Cincinnati theater yesterday, and will appear at other Fourth War Loan shows in other cities.

Nearing Goal

Saturday's ticket sales for the show helped swell Marion county's E bond sales for the day to $25,706.25, giving the county a new E total of $610,043.75 or nearly 75 per cent of its $819,000 E quota. This is the only phase of the county's Fourth War Loan not over the top.

Saturday sales of all denominations amounted to $60,724.75, giving the county a new total of $3,255,347.75 or $417,347.75 beyond the $2,838,000 goal.

Two other acuvities this week will help swell the E bond total. One is the "Back Your Buddy With a Bond" drive staged by the women's division with headquarters at the Victory House, and the other is the LaRue bond auction scheduled for Thursday night at the final session of the LaRue Community Institute.

Political Trends Crowding War for Attention

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Stalin's Red armies continue to carve their way into the Hitlerite front — further consolidation of their position about the strategic fortified center of Narva up north in the Baltic state of Estonia, another great thrust into the pre-war Poland, and down in the Dnieper bend the encirclement of five more Nazi divisions to add to the ten divisions surrounded last week.

Militarily the situation on the whole in the European theater looks good for the allies. Still, it seems to me that, taking the long view, the political developments which are flooding out of Moscow are even more important than the fresh gains on the battle fields. Actually, of course, it's because of the victories that we are getting the surge of political developments.

The European conflict is rapidly becoming a politico-military affair. And the whole trend seems to be in the direction of extending Russian influence westward across the continent—eastward into Asia, for that matter.

Answer Still Sought

The big break came last week when we had Moscow's startling announcement extending the sovereignty of the sixteen states of the Soviet Union to include the right to establish independent diplomatic relations abroad and maintain armies. The world is still trying to figure that out. However, one thing seems clear, and this is that Moscow has created a flexible commonwealth of nations which can absorb as many foreign countries as decide they would like to join.

Today we get a follow-up. Russia intimates strongly that she plans to give the stamp of approval to the establishment of a Polish state independent of the exiled government in London as a basis for settling the hot Russo-Polish territorial dispute.

But that's only half the story. Moscow radio says the first move of the new foreign office in the Ukraine—one of the republics of the Soviet Union — will be to make a treaty with the "new" Polish government. Then, says the radio, "a new democratic Poland will arise." The broadcast didn't suggest that this new Polish government might apply for admission to the Soviet commonwealth of nations, but who says it won't? We should know the answer before long, if the Red armies continue their wardward rush into Poland.

Blow To Bulgaria

Coincident with this significant developments, Moscow landed with both feet on the Bulgarian government. The Sofia regime, which is a Hitlerite puppet, is charged with aggression against Russia and Yugoslavia.

This Soviet move would seem calculated to unhorse the Bulgarian government and bring the country into the Red camp. Indications long have been that it wouldn't take much pressure to persuade the Bulgarian people to take matters into their own hands, since the majority of them are pro-Russian and have been clamoring for the government to desert Hitler.

Of course, the winning over of Bulgaria would be a grand gain for the allies. It might be the thing which would plow the Nazis out of the Balkan peninsula and place their right wing in Russia in still further jeopardy. However, I think we are entitled to interpret Moscow's maneuver as fitting perfectly into the picture of Soviet extension of influence.

Moscow has made it quite clear that it considers the Balkan peninsula to be within Russia's sphere of influence. That doesn't mean the Soviet intends to annex Balkan territory. However, Communism already has a hold not only in Bulgaria but in Greece and Yugoslavia. Should Communist governments be established in those states, they might apply for membership in the Soviet Union.

Admission of the coming Russian domination of at least eastern Europe is seen in the declaration last week by Dr. Benes, president of the little republic of Czechoslovakia, that his country is going to orient its policy towards Moscow. Prior to the Nazi upheaval, Czechoslovakia looked to France and Britain for security. Now it's the Soviet Union.

"Peace Now" Moves Assailed at State Vets' Meeting Here

40 et 8 National Head Warns That Enemy Must Be Completely Defeated To Prevent Future Wars.

Deploring the "peace now" movement which he said is spreading over the country, Oscar C. Lamp of Passaic, N. J., chef de chemin de fer, national head of the 40 et 8 War I veterans' organization, told more than 150 members in session here that no halt way peace should be made now that would plunge the country into another war in 24 or 25 years. His talk was given at the week-end meeting of chefs de gare and correspondents of the grand Voiture of Ohio, 40 et 8, here.

Mr. Lamp, who came here from Santa Monica, Calif., was guest speaker at a banquet held Saturday night at Hotel Harding. "We should not make any peace until the enemy is licked and will not be able to make war again for many years," he declared.

The banquet was attended by 115 veterans and was followed by a "wreck" at the Eagles' hall, and a business session Sunday at the hotel. Fred P. Hoss, chef de gare of Marion Voiture No. 48, hosts for the meeting, served as master of ceremonies for the banquet. He presented the various officers of the grand and local voitures. Sharing honors with Mr. Lamp were N. Carl Nielsen of Indianapolis, commissaire intendant nationale and acting correspondante nationale, and Will J. Erwin of Cleveland, grand chef de gare. Talks were given by Mr. Nielsen, Mr. Erwin James Suhr of Cleveland, national executive committeeman of the American Legion, and other guests.

District Reports Given

Reports of activities in the 11 districts of the state were given and a major portion of Sunday's business session, held at Hotel Harding, was devoted to discussions of matters pertaining to the organization and its work. Enrollment of new members and plans for curbing delinquency among juveniles, a project in which the grand voiture is primarily interested, were stressed by the officers.

Approximately 150 veterans attended the session when a resolution recommending the election of Past Grand Chef De Gare W. A. Reichelderfer of Dayton to a national office was approved and an amendment providing a change in the constitution and by-laws of the next grand convocation to be held in August at Columbus was presented. The amendment proposes that officers of chefs de gare in the west and south be eliminated, and only one chef de gare from the grand voiture of Ohio.

$500 Donation Made

A check for $500 to purchase playing cards for service men was presented to the chef de chemin de fer from the Logan county voiture. A legion membership award presented to the Marion voiture was a picture of a modern version of the madamoiselle from Armentieres.

In his talk to the veterans Mr. Lamp emphasized that salesmanship must be used in selling the Legion not only to veterans of World War II but to those of World War I who are not in the Legion or any other veterans' organization. A suggestion by Al Fleghest of Toledo, that the veterans consider a plan whereby a minister, priest or rabbi accompany a messenger delivering a telegram telling of a casualty in the armed forces, met with the approval of the veterans.

Reports showed that Ohio leads in the purchase of playing cards for veterans overseas and that one and one-half millions of cards have been sent to men outside the country.

More than 200 veterans attended the "wreck." Glen Allen, grand correspondante of Ohio, was in charge of the degree work, assisted by E. E. Smith and D. J. MacDonald. The "wreck" was in charge of Dr. H. A. Hoopes, assisted by James Saunders. Taking part in the "tomb" scene were James Saunders, Fred P. Haas, T. E. Kinnear, Alvin LaRue, Erwin Breithaupt and Charles Howard. Later refreshments were served by a committee composed of Edwin Harrold, Irving Dott, W. E. Marks and Roy Smith. Candidates included Municipal Judge Dexter Hazen, Robert W. Brown, R. G. Everett, W. E. Orcutt and Dwight Sager of Marion, Dana Griffin of Marysville, E. J. McCaffrey, R. L. Hertzer and Gilbert Collins of Bucyrus, Lee S. Mills and H. S. Young of Ashland, Alex Elioff, Ralph L. Boylan of Mansfield, Roy Jones and Howard L. Kellar of Newark, G. F. Gurley of Wapakoneta, Wilbur W. Smith of Logan, Thomas Joyce of Lancaster, John E. Dike of Orville, Garry Ramey, A. D. East of E. J. Heitzman of Washington C. H. and G. A. Swallow of Lima.

CALL ISSUED FOR PRICE PANEL AIDS

Need 25 Volunteers for Service in Marion.

Need for approximately 25 volunteers to serve as price panel assistants was sounded today by Arthur Zachman, chairman of the price panel of Marion County War Price and Rationing board following a meeting held recently in Delaware which stressed the necessity of such assistants.

These workers are needed to carry on the surveys which have had to be conducted in the past by the four panel members themselves. Surveys of almost 120 stores requires considerable time with only the four working and the need for volunteers to assist with this work has been recognized and an appeal made for both men and women who could devote some time at regular intervals to the compliance work of the panel.

They would be asked to check prices of various merchandise, investigate complaints received from shoppers and attempt to correct any misunderstanding.

If at least 15 workers volunteered the surveys could be conducted regularly with just a few hours work from each assistant.

made soon after they launched their attack on the Philippines but which never has been verified by allied or neutral sources.

The first report of Iguchi's statement relayed by Berlin suggested he was talking purely for a world audience with the object of countering as much as possible the effect on world opinion of Washington and London charges of cruelty and bestiality toward allied prisoners of war.

There was no immediate indication whether Iguchi's statement was being broadcast or published in Japan in an effort to incite the Japanese people.

Iguchi cited what he said were some of the attacks "resulting in murder" and other acts of mistreatment against Japanese in the United States. He listed these alleged incidents in California:

"Jugi Nano, an employe of the state garage in El Dorado street, Stockton, was assaulted and killed with a revolver in the early morning of Dec. 23, 1941.

"Shigemasa Yoshitoka, proprietor of the Sunrise hotel in Washington St., Stockton, was similarly murdered at his home on Feb. 20, 1942."

Iguchi charged that Japanese internees were confined in delapidated tents under adverse weather conditions at Fort Bliss, Tex., "in utter disregard of their suffering."

He declared Hatsuki Wakahp, suffering from tuberculosis, and Kota Isomura, suffering from a spinal disease, were shot to death by guards at Topaz relocation center in Utah.

Cites Davao Camp

Some 18,000 Japanese at Davao in the Philippines were forced to live under "abominable" conditions in a camp, he asserted, and 1,200 men, women and children were "herded into the muddy grounds of the central grammar school and kept there during a heavy rain for four days without proper shelter."

"No food was provided for them by the Americans for the first two days," he asserted, "and after that they were given only a handful of rice and a small amount of salt per day."

Japanese taken from Malaya and Burma by the British, he charged, were "thrown into holds of ships and sometimes into prisons and were almost completely robbed of their possessions." Their accommodations were described as very poor and their food as "not only poor but decomposed resulting in malnutrition and widespread dysentery."

Iguchi charged instances of allied air attacks on Japanese hospital ships and said these were "totally incompatible with the professed humanitarianism" of the British and Americans.

One attack on the Buenos Aires Maru, sunk off New Ireland, on Nov. 26, resulted in death of 174 persons, including nurses, he said, although "due notice concerning this hospital ship, as in the case of all others, had been given to the enemy countries in accordance with the stipulations of The Hague convention, and the vessel bore the required markings as called for by that convention * * *."

Nurses in lifeboats and on rafts were machinegunned after the sinking, he charged.

COUNTY JUNIOR FAIR HEADS ARE ELECTED

Warren Seiter Named President at Board Meeting.

Warren Seiter was elected president of the County Junior Fair board in a meeting held Saturday night at the County Extension office in the postoffice building.

Other officers elected are Donald Butz, vice president, Genevieve Dobbins, secretary, and Howard Price, treasurer. Members of the premium committee for the boys' section are Donald Butz, chairman, Howard Price and David White. The girls' premium committee is composed of Genevieve Dobbins, chairman, Ruth Lyons and Georgine Berringer. The committees will meet before May 1 to formulate plans to be presented at the May meeting of the board.

6 ENTER INNOCENT PLEAS AT LORAIN

By The Associated Press

ELYRIA, O., Feb. 7—Six Lorain residents pleaded innocent in common pleas court today to charges of assaulting Cecil B. Dalton of Sheffield Lake with intent to maim. Each was released under $1,000 bond.

Judge Guy B. Findley granted counsel for the defendants—including a housewife, four postal employes and a discharged police officer—permission to file pleas in abatement in connection with a second count of a grand jury indictment.

This count accused the six of blackmail. Defense counsel asserted in court there was no extortion nor intent of extortion. A hearing on the abatement pleas was scheduled for Feb. 16.

The defendants are charged with assaulting Dalton Jan. 13 and forcing him to sign a statement that he annoyed Mrs. Russell King, 38. They include William J. Esser, 47, suspended foreman of letter carriers in the Lorain postoffice; letter carriers George J. Reubel, 40, Joseph S. Hazzard, 39, and James Bonaiuto, 22, Frank Eiden, dismissed Lorain policeman, and Mrs. King.

County Cage Loop Season Near End

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Attention of a majority of basketball fans in this vicinity this week will be centered on the Marion county league, which concludes regular season operations with a grand finale of six attractive clashes Friday night.

One of the hardest county contests of the 1943-44 schedule will be staged Friday on the Claridon High floor, where Claridon's loop pacers will receive a rigid cage examination from Pleasant Township's rapidly ascending five, currently deadlocked for third place with LaRue, last year's county title-holder.

The North Central Ohio conference assumes a position of secondary importance this week, inasmuch as the trio of games on tap doesn't present much in the way of the hard-fought battles. On the contrary, this week's line-up of N. C. O. tilts contains two and possibly three games of the horse-race variety.

Marion Harding's Presidents should be leading the Shelby Whippets by a big margin at the end of their game at Thomas Edison gym here Friday night. Ashland should trample Mt. Vernon by an equally convincing score, and the Bucyrus Redmen shouldn't have too tough a time in subjugating the Galion Orangemen.

Irish Play Two

The Irish of Marion St. Mary play their sixteenth and seventeenth games of the season this week, traveling to Fostoria tomorrow night to face Fostoria St. Wendelin for the second time and returning to the local Edison gym Saturday to encounter Richwood's Tigers, coached by Dick Fetter. The leagues of counties in the district either close the books on their regular campaigns this week or play crucial tilts that will all but decide the championship teams. The Wyandot county loop wound up its season last Friday and now is set for opening its annual tournament. Other county tourneys are scheduled to get under way within the next few weeks.

Morral High's basketeers, who have only one blemish on their 1943-44 county league slate, can beat Claridon out of the title Friday night by defeating Agosta, as they should handily, provided, of course, that Pleasant springs a mild upset and whips the Claridonians. A. B. Augenstein's Claridon team has either shared or held undisputably first place since county play started in November. Among the leader's victims is the second place Morral team, whose nine wins and one loss puts it a half-game out of the first spot.

In case of a Pleasant triumph over Claridon, the former outfit wouldn't win the crown but would strongly enhance its chances in the tournament, set to begin Thursday, Feb. 17. Pleasant and LaRue are tied for third slot with eight wins and two setbacks.

Probably the closest of the three N. C. O. tilts this week will be the one matching Galion and Bucyrus at Galion. Bucyrus romped, 55 to 28, over the Orangemen last month but have fallen off noticeably in point production since. If Bucyrus loses, she will be once and for all ousted from a position of contention for the league throne. The Redmen have won four games and lost three and have three games remaining. Ashland and Marion, tied for first, have each copped six and dropped one decision.

Harding is expected to increase the margin of victory over Shelby Friday. The first time the two fives met, the Presidents took a 43 to 31 win. Last Friday, Shelby was dealt one of its worst athletic defeats in history, an 88 to 47 shellacking by the Ashland Hilltoppers, who have looked like a great ball club except for one night—the 56 to 47 loss to Marion.

Unless their star guard, Danny McGinnis, returns to action, Lane McCrate's St. Mary parochials will have a hard task to split even in their two games this week. Fostoria St. Wendelin naturally will be out to avenge a 35 to 22 loss to St. Mary two weeks ago and Richwood will more than welcome a second crack at the Irish, who beat the Tigers, 29 to 28, last month. Richwood has risen in prestige since by winning five straight Union county league games against no losses.

Golden Gloves Entries Still Coming In

Entries for the Marion Golden Gloves boxing tournament hit the 47 mark Saturday after five out-of-town and two city youths signed up with the Y's Men's Service club, sponsor of the tourney.

Prospects for additional out-of-town entries were brightened when it was learned that the Ohio school for the Deaf and Dumb in Columbus intends to enter several fighters in the local event, to be staged at the Armory on West Church street, March 13, 14 and 17. Roy F. Nilson, principal of the school, informed tournament officials last week that the Deaf and Dumb hopefuls probably would register within a few days.

Three boxers from LaRue entered in the tourney last week, William Liebold, a 110-pounder, John H. Allen, a 215-pounder, and Hoyt Leeth Jr. who comes in at around 165. These three boys have been in training under the direction of Mike Farmer of LaRue, former amateur boxer in this area.

Other entries received last week were those of Wilber Earl Bilder of Nevada, Delbert Newland of Morral, Robert Shenefield of Marion, and Robert Nicoll of the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

Wayne McCune, chairman of the Y's Men's special boxing committee reminds boys interested in entering the tournament that the tentative deadline is Feb. 15. This may be extended, however, if the number of entries received by that time do not reach officials' minimum expections, placed at between 60 and 70 fighters.

Baseball Takes New Lease on Life at Dinner of Writers

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Baseball glowed with added self-esteem today after robust verbal pats on the back received at the 21st annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers last night.

Satire was provided by the writers themselves in their home-spun skits in which nothing is sacred. The serious note was found in the utterances and communications of such esteemed citizens as Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, Lieut. Col. Larry S. MacPhail, Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois and baseball's own old man of the mountain—Commissioner K. M. Landis.

General Somervell was unable to attend, but in a telegram urged baseball to help in the maintenance of morale both at home and among our troops.

Commissioner Landis reiterated his statement of a year ago that baseball would continue as long as teams made up of players subject to the same war-time responsibilities as 130,000,000 other Americans could be put on the field.

Senator Lucas declared that as far as he could foresee baseball never would be ruled non-essential by the government. "If anybody does," he said, "he might just as well abolish elections."

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was presented the Bill Slocum memorial award for distinguished service to baseball, and Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, was honored as the outstanding player of 1943.

PLAYERS IN SERVICE GIVEN PROTECTION

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Baseball's national defense list players, numbering more than 3,500, can thank the major-minor league planning committee for safeguarding their interests with an apparently fool-proof plan for reassignment.

After two days of wordy sessions, the committee under Commissioner K. M. Landis yesterday popped up with several recommendations based on the theory that the servicemen players will be regarded in baseball law as if they had been in the game for the duration.

As approximately 88 per cent of the men concerned are on minor league lists, the bulk of the proposals concern steps by which those returning to the game will be assured of a fair trial with their own clubs or one of equal rank and be protected against indiscriminate shuffling around from Class AA to D.

To make these assurances, the committee, which has power only to recommend pending league ratification, asked all minor leagues to adopt waiver rules during this particular situation.

Denison, Bee-Gees Meet Aga

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 7—The Big Red from Denison and Bowling Green's Bee-Gees will have it out again Wednesday night and the winner will be in an excellent spot to grab off at least the second best record among Ohio's college basketball teams.

Miami's undefeated Redskins don't show any signs of slipping from the top position so the battle between Bowling Green and Denison—the state's two highest scoring outfits—looms as the foremost tilt of a 31-game program this week.

Denison, averaging better than 70 points a game, took a 53 to 39 beating from Bowling Green in their first game this season but the Big Red will have the advantage of its home floor Wednesday night. Denison's only other loss in 15 games was by Ohio State.

Bee-Gees Lose Two

Bowling Green also has lost only twice in 12 games, both defeats by the powerful Great Lakes Naval Training Station quintet.

Miami, which drubbed Wright Field Saturday night, 65 to 44, for its tenth straight conquest, will go out of the state for its only game of the week, meeting Canisius Saturday night.

Denison is undisputed leader in the Ohio conference.

The eyes of the Big Ten also will be turned toward Ohio this week as Ohio State entertains undefeated Iowa twice. The Bucks, who split even with Purdue last week-end, losing 49 to 59, and winning 54 to 47, are sorely in need of both games to keep alive their faint hopes for at least a share of the conference crown.

The 31 games on the program this week include 11 with out-of-state foes.

McSpaden Gets Birdies To Tie Byron Nelson

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 7—The chips were down when Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia reached the 16th green yesterday in the afternoon round of the Phoenix open golf tournament finals.

It was there someone told him that Byron Nelson had finished the 72 holes of play with a 273, nine under par, and appeared to be the winner. That meant McSpaden would have to birdie the last two holes to gain a tie.

With the pressure on, he rammed down a 40-foot putt from the edge of the 17th green, then dropped a six-footer on the 18th for the birdies which delayed first prize presentation.

They tee off today in an 18-hole playoff for the first prize of a $1,000 war bond. The loser will receive a $750 bond.

Sam Byrd of Detroit and Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., won $500 war bonds in tying for third and fourth places with 280.

$1,000 Donated At Theaters in Marion for Paralysis Fight

The Infantile Paralysis March of Times staged in Marion theaters netted something over $1,000 for the 1944 campaign for the prevention and cure of the disease, reports show today.

At the Palace theater $748.92 was contributed, and Marion theater patrons contributed $125.74. Due to the closing of the Orpheum for repairs, the campaign did not get under way there as early as in former years, and the collection, which amounted to around $100 was not as large as it would have been otherwise. A three-day collection ending Saturday night at the State theater amounted to $90.05. The collections at the Palace and Marion theaters topped last years contributions by an appreciable amount.

Half of the money will be used nationally, and the other half will go for local use.

"AIR RAID SOCIAL" IS HELD BY CHURCH GROUP

Central Christian Church Youths Hold Special Event.

A simulated air raid opened the "air raid social" held by the youth group of Central Christian church Sunday night. The basement of the church was designated as the "air raid shelter" and "wardens" were on hand to give directions amid the noise of "exploding bombs" and "air raid sirenblasts."

A dinner was served by the Pastor's Married Couples class. Miss Eva Hinze was toastmaster. Rev. Eldred Johnston led songs and Miss Carol Whirrett, president of the youth group, gave the welcome. Responses were given by Keith McMurray, president of the Christian Young People's Union, Miss Aileen Edwards, representative of Chi Rho, junior high youth group, and Miss Mary Belle Eberhart, representative of Felochee, college age youths. Miss Barbara MacDonald sang, accompanied by Miss Grace Crizer.

Rev. Phillip Gould of Shreve, O., spoke on "Bomb-proof Ideals for Youth" and he emphasized that regardless of what happens to our physical world, nothing can destroyed the young person who has built the ideals of Jesus Christ into his life.

Following the address all lights were turned off. All that could be seen were a large luminous cross back of the speaker's table, and the luminous emblems on the place cards, which were made in the shape of a warden's helmet. The group then sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Be Our Guardian and Guide." The closing prayer was given by Rev. Gould.

Miss Betty Carmean was general chairman. Miss Pearl Haywood was chairman of decorations, Miss Mary Gore, Miss Betty Cramer, Miss Beverly West and Sam Baker were in charge of publicity.

CALLS STRIKES INEXCUSABLE

Green Tells Boilermakers There Is No Justification for Any Walkout.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Feb 7—With the lives of our fighting men at stake and victory hanging in the balance, there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work, William Green, American Federation of Labor president, today told delegates to the International Boilermakers' Union convention.

"At this moment," Green said, "vast military movements are in progress and even greater drives are in preparation. Millions of American boys will be called upon to risk their lives in action against the enemy. Our soldiers, sailors and marines will fight courageously, unyieldingly and incessantly.

"The workers of America must work in the same spirit. When the lives of our sons and brothers and loved ones are at stake, when victory in this war against hated tyranny hangs in the balance, there cannot be any justification or excuse for any strike or stoppage of work.

"No matter how unjust conditions may become, no matter how sharp and aggravation may be, the members of the American Federation of Labor should realize that they must stay on the job and keep producing to the limit of their ability until final victory is won."

The labor leader said the national and international unions affiliated with the AFL have made a 100 per cent perfect record in fulfilling their no-strike pledge to the government. He called upon local unions to match their record.

Voicing opposition to the contemplated labor conscription act, Green said the bill, in the judgment of the AFL, would not add a single bullet to the nation's war production totals, adding:

"On the contrary, we firmly believe that the substitution of involuntary servitude for voluntary cooperation might so confuse the production program and so upset labor morale as to retard production and set back the entire war effort.

"Because it will not increase war production, because it will not solve manpower problems, because it will not prevent strikes and because it may seriously embarrass the nation's war effort, the American Federation of Labor will resist with all its power the attempt being made to enact a national service act."

FEDERAL VOTE BILL WINS IN SENATE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — The administration beat off a second senate attempt to sidetrack its federal ballot bill today, defeating an opposition move to take up a "states rights" proposal which would leave armed service voting to the states.

The motion was rejected 44 to 42 on a roll call.

The same move, backed by a coalition of southern Democrats and some Republicans, lost on a tie vote Friday.

The effect of the vote was to keep the senate at work on the Green-Lucas federal ballot bill which it has been debating more than two weeks.

Had the motion carried, the senate would have had to shunt aside the administration bill for immediate consideration of the house approved states' rights bill.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), opposing the administration bill, virtually conceded after today's roll-call that the administration had the votes to put the Green-Lucas bill through the senate. He predicted, however, the federal ballot will never be accepted by the house which voted overwhelmingly against the idea last week.

Nazis Fear Diplomat Goes Over to Allies

By The Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Feb. 7—A high official in the German embassy here, who has been under investigation by the gestapo, has disappeared and the Germans apparently fear he has gone over to the allies.

German Ambassador Franz Von Papen interrupted a vacation in the Bursa mountains to return to Istanbul and direct an investigation.

Four Are Killed As Car Hits Underpass

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Feb. 7—An automobile crashed into an underpass abutment near here, fatally injuring four Dayton residents.

Charles Henry Nees, 34, and Mary Katherine Pawley, 22, were killed outright in the Saturday night accident on Route 35. Dorrough Hayes, 16, died a short time later, and Mrs. Wanda Jean Preston, 21, died yesterday.

WHERE JAPS HOLD U. S. PRISONERS. From Mukden in Manchuria and Hakodate in Japan to Malang, Java, stretches the vast chain of Jap prison camps in which Americans are held either as military prisoners or civilians who were held after Pearl Harbor. As shown on this map, which is based on information provided by the International Red Cross, there are more than 10 camps and, in these, are more than 50,000 Americans—although the exact figures are not known. While the Red Cross has made every effort to get the usual special supply packages to the Americans, the Japs were last among the nations to allow such shipments—despite international arrangements. But one shipment has gone through and a second, which left but a few months ago, has been reported with cargo rotting on the docks in the Russian port of Vladivostok.

C. OF C. GROUP PLANS MARCH 9 MEETING

Other Chamber Activities Listed in Monthly Bulletin.

Plans for a March 9 evening meeting at which Elmer Wheeler, nationally known sales speaker, will appear are being made by the Retailers Group of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, according to the chamber's monthly business bulletin to members. Ray T. Sutton is chairman of the Retailers Group in charge of the event.

Other material in the Chamber bulletin includes the following:

Business statistics for January with preceding month's figures in parentheses — bank debits, $22,-067,252 ($23,066,850); building permits, 10 for $10,925 (7 for $10,-500), postal receipts, $19,143.76 ($30,835); new car sales, 5 (1); used car sales, 60 (76); gas meters, $9,678 (9,664); electric meters 10,211 (10,277); relief cases, 67 (64).

The Arro Expansion Bolt Co and the Osgood Co. were winners in the December industrial safety contest.

Ray T. Sutton, chairman of the retail board of managers, has appointed J. V. Lloyda chairman of an 11-man retail promotion committee.

Marion Chamber will be represented at a meeting of the Ohio Small Business commission in Mansfield Feb. 24 to analyze problems of small business in Ohio.

The Marion personnel managers-safety group will meet at the Huber Mfg. Co. plant tonight for a general discussion of safety and a tour of the plant.

Newly-elected officers for the industrial safety contest include Hugh J. Webster, chairman, and C. J. Roberts, vice chairman.

The bulletin reproduces part of a letter Col John Huling, Jr., first commanding officer of Scioto Ordnance Plant, to a Marion friend as follows.

"This is the third city with which I have been associated as the result of having a war activity in or close to the city. We have pleasant relations and good cooperation here, but I look back to Marion as the outstanding example of where a community really met its war duties more than half way. I feel as time goes on, Marion will be still prouder of the unselfish way in which she supported the industrial efforts of the Army which have been so prime to war success. I am quite conscious of how nebulous our plans had to be at the beginning and how quickly they were reduced in scope, but I think that is all a part of the scheme that is making it possible for our armed forces on the front to win."

West Liberty Soldier Wins Shoveling Title

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 7—Pvt Roy L. Webb of near West Liberty (Logan county) won $80 and the sand shoveling championship of Ohio's famed 37th division recently, but buddies who backed him picked up $800 in side bets.

Webb tossed 19 tons of sand in three hours and 56 minutes after betting he could do the job in four hours flat.

The feat, performed as an Army medical company of the division was preparing to receive casualties on Bougainville Island, followed an argument over how long it would take to dig an oversize foxhole needed by the unit. The hole was eight feet wide, 10 feet long and four feet deep.

Webb, whose experience at his farm home made him a veteran in the use of shovels and pitchforks, stopped several times during the grind for three-minute rest periods and poured cool water on aching wrists.

Marion Air Cadet in Critical Condition

Air Cadet George F. Long, 21, of Marion, is seriously ill in an Army base hospital at Manhattan, Kan., where he has been attending school preparatory to service in the armed forces.

Stricken with scarlet fever, and later with pneumonia, he was taken to the hospital two weeks ago last Wednesday. A streptococcic infection followed a relapse from pneumonia. A telegram received yesterday by his mother, Mrs. George Long, who is in Columbus, stated that surgeons had punctured his lung and there was only slight hope for recovery. Cadet Long, who is the grandson of Mrs. Ida Longshore of West Mark street, was home last December on a 10-day furlough. Mrs. Long is making her home temporarily in Columbus with a daughter, Virginia. The Long home is at 151 Johnson street.

City P.-T. A. Council To Elect Officers Thursday

The Marion City Council of Parents and Teachers will meet Thursday at 7:45 p. m. in the Home Science room of Harding High school for election of officers and a program. A panel discussion on "Juvenile Delinquency" will be held with E. E. Holt, city superintendent of schools, Mrs. Dewey Bohyer and two high school students taking part. Vocal solos will be presented by Miss DeMeril Hafer.

Predicament

If you lose your Ration Book

Applicants must advertise in a local newspaper of general circulation in the area in which the applicant resides or in which the ration book or coupons were lost at least twice within 10 days after applying to the local board. Description of the missing books or coupons as listed in the application must be stated in the advertisement.

A copy of the advertisement must be mailed to C. C. Holliday, chief clerk of the local board.

At the end of 10 day the applicant may appear before the local board and upon showing a copy of the advertisement and stating the loss has been reported to police and that the missing books or coupons have not been returned, replacements will be issued.

RYE UP, BUT WHEAT AND OATS ARE SLOW

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 — A short-covering movement sent rye up for fractional gains in the grain market today, but wheat and oats were little changed when compared with last week's close. There were unconfirmed rumors of some sales of cash rye to accompany the short-covering rally.

Interest in the market lagged and trading generally was on a small scale. Corn bookings were placed at 120,000 bushels. Grain elevator firms said the corn they had in their possession was high moisture grain and mild weather was not improving the corn's quality. A shortage of box cars keeps the corn from moving to terminals.

LEGAL NOTICE

In pursuance of the Order of the Probate Court of Marion County, Ohio, made on the 22nd day of February, 1944 at 10:00 o'clock A. M. at the Court House of said County, I will offer for sale at the door of the Court House in the City of Marion, Ohio, the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Marion and State of Ohio, to-wit:

Known as Lot Number Two (2) in Block Number Four (4) in Charles Gayle's First Addition to the Village of Prospect, Ohio, as recorded in Plat Book 2, page 26 of the Records of Deeds in the Recorder's Office of Marion County, Ohio.

Said premises are located on the Northeast corner of Park and Pine Streets in said Village of Prospect. Said sale will not be made for less than two-thirds of the appraised value. Terms, cash on day of sale.

Ira Williamson, Administrator of the estate of Rosella Mae (Mae) Kirk, deceased.

Case No. 14473.

MANY LEADERS STILL LAGGING

Only Gains Worthwhile Are Shown by Rails and Industrialists.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Rails and selected industrials posted modest recoveries in today's stock market although many leaders continued to display a lack of worthwhile support.

The substantial retreat of the past two weeks inspired a little binding on the idea the list was in a position to resume the upswing, providing the news warranted. Most potential buyers remained wary, however, pending completion of the war loan drive, foreign developments and more light on the 1944 earnings picture.

Fractional improvement, fairly well distributed at the start, was maintained in most cases near the fourth hour. Dealings were slow.

In front most of the time were Santa Fe, American Distilling "Plain," Park & Tilford, Westinghouse and Douglas Aircraft. Steels were about unchanged. Losers included International Harvester, Consolidated Edison, General Motors, United Aircraft, Woolworth and Goodyear.

District Briefs

GALION — Mrs. Mary Wells of 202½ Harding Way East, has received a telegram from the adjutant general in Washington, that her husband, Sgt. Wilbur G. Wells, Jr., 27, was seriously wounded in action on Jan. 7, in Italy. Sgt. Wells is from Bellefontaine, entering the service about 20 months ago, he has been overseas about one year. Mrs. Wells came to Galion about a year ago as manager of the Isaly Dairy store, and is now employed at the Stratbury Mfg. Co., here.

GALION — A son was born Friday at the Crestline Emergency hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry of Galion.

GALION — A son born at Galion City hospital Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Shipley of Route 2, Mt. Gilead, died at birth.

KENTON — Captain Henri A. Kerns, former Kenton physician and surgeon, has arrived in England with his unit, his wife was informed.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services in the Marion Gospel center will continue each night at 8 this week with special singing by Rev. and Mrs. Fagan of Shelby, O., and novelty instrumental numbers by Ray Kindle of Middleport, O. Rev. Fagan, blind musician and singer, will preach tonight on "This Way In" and Friday night he will give his life story. The pastor, Rev. W. E. Budget, will preach Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Special children's meetings will be held Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 4:20.

U. S. Naval Officer Made Break from Jap Camp 10 Months Ago

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Feb. 5—It was just 10 months ago yesterday that Comdr. Melvin McCoy, U. S. N., and nine other fighting Americans escaped after 11 months imprisonment during which they suffered and witnessed atrocious treatment by their Japanese captors in the Philippines.

Now the lean radio officer tells his story reluctantly, bit by bit, declining to give details of incidents he defines as being 'as foul as anything in history.'

Although systematically starved, so that weakness would handicap escape attempts, McCoy told the Seattle Times today he and three companions risked death by stealing 133 chickens in three months, to build up their strength for the escape.

"The most important thing," he added, "is to have the will to escape. * * * hundreds of men plan to escape, but very few make the actual attempt. You have to want it more than you want anything else.

"That's why few ever comes into it. By the time you've decided everything—all the risks—you aren't afraid any more."

On last April 4, the 37-year-old naval officer and nine other men slipped out of Camp No. 2, a former penal colony 25 miles north of Davao city, southernmost city of the Philippines on Mindanao island.

The territory they had to traverse was marked on maps as "unexplored."

"It's explored now," he said succinctly.

"We left 'blind,' figuring we could steal a boat — merely to escape into the jungle would be next to useless. Unless boat transportation can be stolen, there is no sense to it.

"We left on Sunday,' he continued. 'On Monday, they sent out scores of Japs to find us. * * *

"We never would have made a full escape if I hadn't born for the Philippine natives. Ninety-five per cent of them are loyal to the United States."

After several narrow escapes from search parties and becoming lost in a swampy wilderness, they finally regained a trail only to find themselves trailing 40 Japanese soldiers who were hunting them. They followed until the trail forked, when they took the one not taken by the Japanese.

Finally, they got away in a stolen boat on a dark night. Months later they reached Australia, haggard but alive.

Commander McCoy says his experience has made him more religious than he was.

He chuckled. "Now my wife gets me to our own church much oftener than she used to. Before, it was just Christmas and Easter with me."

OROUTH

has drouth been greater than this winter.

Last month was the driest January on record—ninety-seven hundredths of an inch.

Many Ohio farmers have been hailing water for several weeks. The wheat crop, planted when the drouth was starting, was slow in germinating and has produced little growth during the winter. The same is true of winter rye and barley, crop experts said.

Dr. H. C. Ramsower, Ohio State university agriculture extension director, said the state picture was not encouraging, but agriculturists were afraid to predict either success or failure of 1943 plantings.

Dr. Wilber E. Stout, state geologist, said normal rains were needed to bring up the subterranean water supply, and it might be three to eight months before wells and streams would be refilled after such rainfall.

The Ohio water supply board reported the state water table—level of underground water—dropped another 3.17 feet last year.

Injuries Are Fatal To Merchant at Bucyrus

BUCYRUS, Feb. 7—Rites were conducted this afternoon at the Henderson & Lutz funeral home for Mayer Engelhard, 77, merchant for 50 years, who died in City hospital Saturday. His death resulted from shock and injuries received in a fall on the ice Wednesday while enroute to the store where he operated a men's wear business with two brothers, Louis and Mosco. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

Rabbi Charles Lutz of Canton conducted the funeral services.

Survivors with the two brothers is a sister, Miss Ray Engelhard who made a home for the unmarried brothers, Mayer and Louis.

Mr. Engelhard was a member of Bucyrus Elks and of the Order of B'nai Brith at Marion. He was born in Bavaria, coming to this country in 1879.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O.—Pvt. Owen McAllister arrived home to spend a 15-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Carr, in this city. He is a paratrooper stationed at Camp Polk, La.

JAPAN ATTACK

... to find one small merchant ship.

Jap Ship Hit

This vessel, clearly silhouetted ... at the white ... a high plume of ... pouring from its stack. ... other was ... to ... out of danger. ... burning ... away at it as they left ... it. It apparently was ... a number of times and left the object badly crippled in the water. Neither ship was seen to fire back, although a constant lookout was kept for trouble and expecting a rescue.

Guns of the ships traced with dull ruby spots of flame. The wind blew choking smoke into our faces. Red and yellow tracer shells, some in salvos of three or four or more, seemed to drift gently shoreward, streaking the night with color. The flash of enemy guns and tracer streams added to the fiery sky. Star shells floating above the sea and shore shed a glow against the black ground of white mountains. It was like an old-fashioned "hell-burst-in" Fourth of July.

Look for More Targets

Part of the task force I was with continued up the shore for some distance searching for other targets before turning out to sea. Behind us several fires were blazing. One in particular continued to burn with what appeared to be periodic explosions as if of gasoline or ammunition until finally it faded below the horizon.

This fire was still in sight when heavier flashes broke the night behind us. Again we could see tracer streams of Japanese anti-aircraft fire. It was the second section of Commodore Ochres "Express" tablets coming over. The first I was told and hit the area about 15 minutes after the bombardment.

Every move of the task force had been exactly on schedule and after the attack was over it had seemed almost too easy. None disagreed with the sailor who said, "Why we ought to go ahead and take that place."

Navy Announces Paramushiro Attack

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—The Navy confirmed in a communique today that American warships bombarded Japanese installations on Paramushiro island, aircraft followed up with a sharp attack, and all vessels and planes escaped without damage. The daring foray obviously caught the Japanese by surprise in their home waters.

The official announcement expanded on eyewitness accounts made public in the Pacific theater.

The shelling attacks were made at 0 a. m. eastern war time Feb 4, the Navy said—corresponding to 10 o'clock that night by Tokyo time.

On the same night, American aircraft also bombed Paramushiro and Shimushu, the small island lying in the strait between Paramushiro and Russia's Kamchatka peninsula.

The text of Navy communique No. 503.

"North Pacific

"1. At 10 p. m. Feb. 4 (Tokyo time) United States naval surface units bombarded enemy installations on the south and east coasts of Paramushiro. A number of fires were started, and one unidentified enemy ship was hit and beached. Enemy coastal guns returned fire, but United States units sustained no damage.

2. During the same night a flight of our aircraft bombed Paramushiro and Shimushu. All United States planes returned."

(End text.)

Shimushu is the northernmost tip of the Kuriles.

First eye witness stories from the scene spoke only of the bombardment at Kurabu point.

The few records here regarding that spot described it as a low lying point with shoal waters extending eastward and northeast and Reefs and rocks stretching nearly two miles off the point suggest that the ships certainly approached their target no

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MILNER whirled swiftly, then took a step backward, evidently from sheer astonishment.

"Adams!" he exclaimed. "What are you doing here?"

There was suspicion as well as amazement in his voice, and I surmised that while Milner—unsuspecting that Adams was my father's "right hand man,"—had relied heavily upon him, yet he had not fully confided in him, and that one of the things he had kept back was his ownership of the restaurant we were in, although he just had boasted of it to me.

Questions Adams

"How did you know I was here?" he rasped, giving Adams no chance to answer the first question, so swiftly did the second tread on the heels of the first. For a panic-stricken instant, I wondered how Adams was going to get out of that one, but I need not have feared. His answer was ready—and convincing.

"I didn't know," he said, "until I saw you standing here and heard you say something about police. Naturally, having worked for you so long, I wanted to offer my help if you needed me."

"Ah!" Milner said mechanically, "Very nice of you, Adams, I'm sure." Then his voice again sharpened with suspicion.

"But how do you happen to come down to this particular place?" he asked.

"As you know," Adams said, with just the right hesitation in his voice, "I am still in the employ of the Lansfield, and when Mr. Veritzen said that I was to come down here and deliver a note from him to Mr. Spencer, I did the errand as quickly as I could."

Surveys Restaurant

Milner whirled and swept the restaurant with his eyes.

"Spencer here, in this restaurant?" he demanded. "I don't see him."

"Probably he hasn't arrived yet," Adams suggested placidly. "Mr. Veritzen said if he were not here when I came in, I was to order something to eat and wait for him. So, if you do not need me, and will excuse me now, I will get a table—if I can," he added, with a glance around the crowded small room. "The place appears to be filled up."

I doffed a mental chapeau to my father's "right-hand man." His manner was perfect, and he had given only the cursory glance bestowed on strangers to the occupants of our table, realizing, of course, that to have avoided looking at us would have quickened Milner's already aroused suspicion.

Glances at Madre

Milner shot an oblique glance toward me, and I surmised that he was considering repeating before Adams what he had told us about Stephen Redfield's recognition of us and his own demand that we leave his restaurant or else be put out by his "own police." But I realized that he was either evading or postponing the issue when he said with palpably forced cordiality:

"There's an extra place at my table and I know Redfield will be as glad as I am to have you take it."

"Thank you," Adams returned, "I shall be very glad to accept your courtesy."

"Then come along," Milner said, turning away from our table without another glance at us, and Adams also kept "eyes front" as he followed his former employer back to the table where Redfield was seated.

Mary, of course, was the first to speak when Milner was out of earshot. Her mental reactions are generally ahead of her friends and relatives, although her conclusions may not be as sound as her first impressions.

Speaks

"Now, what do you suppose was behind that spiel?" she queried. "Do you think Steve has tipped Milner off that 'the Chief' is on his trail? I thought Grandpa Spencer had Steve hog-tied and willing to sell the thing he calls his soul for immunity. Yet there he is betraying our make-up to Milner, and letting our erstwhile boniface threaten to put us out by force. And that was a bona-fide threat, too! I ask you, how come?"

"I'm puzzling over the same thing," I said slowly. "But I don't think Milner guesses that Father is aware of his identity as a brother of that enemy alien leader across the water, masquerading here as a hotel manager to screen his position as next to the leader of this gang of international conspirators. Otherwise he would not have dared to come over and threaten us as he did. If he guessed that, he would be getting out of here as fast as possible, either taking Steve with him or throwing him to the wolves, as best suited his convenience."

"But that doesn't explain Steve's snitching!" Mary said stubbornly.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Eye Diagnosis

"IF I HAD to confine myself to the examination of two organs in order to arrive at a diagnosis in a hundred consecutive patients I would select the skin and the eyes," said a distinguished physician and one whose diagnostic acumen has earned him the right to an opinion.

"And," he added, "if I were limited to one I would chose the eye."

The skin has been called the mirror of the system by one of the most eminent dermatologists of our time. And how it does reflect the disturbances that go on beneath! "He doesn't look well," you say, after you part from a friend you haven't seen for a long time. Or—"How splendid you look—10 years younger!"

The judgments are based on the appearance of the eyes and skin. I saw a soldier lately returned from the wars in Africa. Ah, my son, I said to myself, you have had your first experience with malaria. There was a yellowish discoloration on his forehead around the hair line, beneath the tan which comes from taking atabrine, a remedy to prevent malarial attacks. It is a dye and repeated use temporarily discolors the skin.

The eyes—what wells of information they are! They glow with health or reflect illness by their dull sheen. How can we tell anger, or embarrassment, or cold dislike from a glance? Is it the contraction of the pupil or the pull of the muscles, or the narrowing of the lids? No one has ever studied this thoroughly.

Sir Charles Bell, that great anatomist and great artist, made a start in his Anatomy of Expression. "In pain," he says, "the eyeballs are suffused with stagnant blood, there is convulsive action about the muscles of the eyes. The brow is drawn down, the cheek raised, the nostril drawn up." In rage—"the eyeballs are seen largely; they roll and are inflated."

The terrified expression of Grave's disease or exophthalmic goiter with its popping eyes has been stamped on men coming out of battle. Not only the expression, but the disease.

I have been compiling a list for a paper on diagnosis of the diseases that affect the eyes. It makes a long one.

Jaundice, of course, is seen in the eyes before it can be detected in the skin and it remains in the eye long after it has left the skin.

The dead white of anemia shows up in the everted eyelid.

Diabetes, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, brain tumour, half a dozen nervous diseases, blood diseases, and the chronic infectious diseases, tuberculosis and syphilis all affect the retina of the eyes in such a characteristic way that the oculist can make the diagnosis without resorting to the consultation of the general physician or the resources of the laboratory.

It is not only the diagnosis itself, but in high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries it is the severity of the condition which can be determined by an examination of the retina. That is the only place in the body where one can see the medium-sized arteries exposed so their elasticity and thickening can be determined.

Many of the acute contagious diseases show up first or last in the eye—measles, chicken pox, etc. Mumps may mump in the lacrymal gland first. A haemorrhage into the white of the eye may denote whooping cough.

So if your oculist gives you a pronouncement on your general condition, or your physician wants an oculist in consultation, believe him.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Feb. 8

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits it may take much fortitude, patience, determination and hard work to sidestep obstacles, delays and impediments. With prudence, precaution and well-planned tactics and reasonable objectives there may be progress, with a breaking up of static or crystallized situations. But be alert to malevolent forces arising from unexpected sources, safeguard the health and possessions and financial credit as well as personal reputation.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to summon all their determination, courage and endurance in order to break up congested conditions and obstacles coming from unforeseen sources. Delays and disappointments call for patience and perseverance, possibly with the need for relying on their own personal resources and executive ability. Have a care for credit, reputation and health of self and the domestic circles. Make slow but sure the code of operation, thus avoiding sudden changes.

A child born on this day should have much steadiness and stability of character, which will be needed to manage many up and downs in its career. It may gain from an optimistic outlook on stubborn affairs.
